Park at your own risk — There were some warning signs, but apparently they didn't come quickly enough for the owner of this car, which was flooded in the parking lot behind Marland Place, off Stevens Street.

It was a Waterworld

By Neil Fater

While the near-continuous rains of the past week filled Shawsheen River to its banks here, at mid-week, Andover had been fortunate enough to avoid the widespread flooding that affected other nearby communities in the path of the storms.

Workers were called to bring sand to the Stevens Street area Monday, and residents and police have kept an eye on areas like the Shawsheen Plaza parking lot where water has inched into the lot since the end of the weekend. But for the most part the river threatened but did not overflow in any major way.

While pumps were making appearances in basements throughout town, most roads were able to stay open. Drivers were restricted to one-way traffic on River Street from Lowell Junction Road to Andover Street Tuesday.

Those who work or live in other towns know that everyone was not so lucky — relatively speaking.

Schools confront turnover at the top

By Rebecca Lipchitz

The face of Andover High School is changing this year. As school lets out for the summer, three long-time key administrators are parting ways with the school, including the latest to announce his departure, Assistant Principal Peter Leuke.

Leuke follows on the heels of Principal Ellen A. Parker and retiring head of the guidance department, Ruby Easton.

After two years at Andover High School, Leuke will realize his goal of becoming principal at Malden High School July 1.

Peter Leuke — the latest to leave.

"It's a really diverse population. I'm excited to work with them," Leuke says.

Malden High's enrollment is similar to Andover's, at 1,400, but runs a wider range of programs, including an alternative school, vocational school and inclusion programs.

Leuke says he told Parker when he was hired at AHS that his goal was to one day become a principal, and that he planned to

Party on ...

By Rebecca Lipchitz

It's one o'clock. Do you know where your children are? If they hang out in Andover they could be enjoying the great outdoors at Haggetts Pond, Rec Park, Chandler Field or at West Elementary School or Bancroft.

"Historically, schools have been the area where kids hang out," says Police Lt. Arthur Ricci. But he's not talking about daylight hours. Nor is he talking about them seeking academic opportunities. This is older students who gather in the evenings to party. They tend to hang out on public school grounds like West Elementary and Bancroft Elementary School, he says.

West Elementary School Principal Charles Friel does a walk of the school grounds every Monday morning, and says he often finds trash that includes broken glass left by late-night parties. One day a few summers ago, he found a sofa, end table and a lamp, as if someone had set up a living room in the wooded area next to the school.

"It gets worse once school ends," he says.

TOWN TALK

The bartender's blues

When it came time for Frank Morey to ask himself, "What are you going to do with your life?" he says his answer was simple.

"Let's write some songs and see if anyone likes them."

With his first full-length compact disc, BourbonSoakedHalo, fluttering into stores, Morey will soon see just who likes them. But those who want to drink in some live versions of Morey's songs can catch him tonight, Thursday, June 18, at Mama Kin Music Hall in Boston around 10 p.m.

A 1990 graduate of Andover High School, Morey is a mostly self-taught musician who didn't pick up a guitar until his mid-teens. His first appearance was playing REM-type tunes with his 10th-grade band at the Red Barn in North Andover.

Today, Morey performs solo, and takes his cue more from Tom Waits and Neil Young than Michael Stipe.

The new album was self-produced with a friend, who also did backing instrumental work.

Possessed with a slightly gravelly voice and an equally rough sense of humor, Morey sounds like someone you'd like to see at a bar you and your friends frequent. So it comes as little surprise to learn that he's a bartender and occasional performer at Smithwicks in Lowell. Morey says he gets a lot of material from the people who ask him for a beer.

"I'd say that most of these songs are reflections on what's going on around me at the time. As a bartender you see a lot of different people and things," he says. "There was a lot of late night writing — four-in-the morning, no one's-around, grab-a-guitar and see-how-it-goes kind of writing. There's so many characters walking around, it's hard not to include them or become them in a song or two."

Morey says he particularly likes Lowell's economic and ethnic diversity.

"A lot of songs are about the streets of Lowell. There's a mansion on a hill and you drive two streets down and there's a small housing project. There's a lot of material," he says. "I really grew to love Lowell. I feel at home in

NEWS IN BRIEF

Finegold office hours set June 25

Andover state Rep. Barry Finegold will hold office hours Thursday, June 25, at the Andover Senior Center at Whittier Court from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. and Memorial Hall Library on Elm Square from 6 to 7 p.m. Any constituents who cannot attend office hours may contact Rep. Finegold at (617) 722-2575; Statehouse, Room 146, Boston, MA 02133; or by e-mail at Rep.BarryFinegold@state.ma.us

Want to run for senate? Here's how

Due to the recent vacancy in the state Senate seat of the Second and Middlesex districts, the town clerks of Tewksbury, Dracut and Andover and the city clerk of Lawrence will host an informational night for candidates Wednesday, June 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the Tewksbury Town Hall selectmen's meeting room. Anyone who plans to run a sticker or write-in campaign for this office is invited. Citizens of the districts are also welcome.

Town clerks Elizabeth Carey of Tewksbury, Gary McCarthy of Dracut and Randall Hanson of Andover and City Clerk James McGravey of Lawrence will help candidates with individual town election questions and sticker campaign information.

A representative from the Secretary of State's office and the Office of Campaign Finance & Political Finance will be on hand to answer questions related to running for district office and filing campaign committee reports at the state level.

Town Meeting info now on the Web

The results of the 1998 Town Meeting are available on the official Town of Andover web site: <http://www.town.andover.ma.us/>.

"Town staff and elected officials are always looking for ways to increase the level of citizen interest and participation in Town Meeting. Our goal is to use the web site to make it easier for Andover's busy residents to be informed and involved in town affairs," said Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski.

Town Meeting results are available by clicking on "NEWS" at the top of the home page screen. The outcome of each warrant article is indicated along with the dollar amount of all appropriations. The table is also linked to the full text of the Town Meeting Warrant. Click on the article number and the link will take you to the full text of the article as printed in the warrant. Questions about the budget should be directed to the Finance and Budget Department at 623-8217. For further information on specific votes and warrant article amendments, call the town clerk at 623-8255.

Shawsheen open-space workshop set

The Merrimack River Watershed Council (MRWC) and Shawsheen River Watershed Council (SRWC) will hold a workshop on open space for eight local towns from 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, June 30, at Billerica Town Hall, 365 Boston Road (Route 3A).

A representative from each town in the Shawsheen River watershed will discuss open space planning in their area.

The Shawsheen River watershed includes Andover, Bedford, Burlington, Billerica, Burlington, Lawrence, Lexington, North Andover and Tewksbury.

For more information call Kristen Lawrence of MRWC at 681-5777 or email her at kirlawrence@juno.com; or Andre Blouin of SRWC at 640-9193 or andre\_b@mediaone.net; or visit the MRWC web site at www.merrimack.org.

Dog needs a home

The Andover Animal Hospital has dog whose owner passed away, and now needs a new home. The dog, a Shepard/Chow cross named "Queenie," is 8 years old, weighs 69 pounds, is brown and tannish in color and has a "nice" disposition. For information, call the hospital at 475-3600.

Lowell more than anyplace else I've ever been."

Although BourbonSoakedHalo's shot glass of expletives may make the album unpalatable to a few, as Morey says, "Except for the swearing, I think it's pretty universal."

Morey first came to Lowell to attend college, but left to spend more time writing music.

"I fell in love with the city, wasn't crazy about school," he says.

He still comes to Andover, and makes references in songs such as Suburban Dreams to both Andover and the Phillips Academy bell tower that's near where his mother still lives. The song is about how living in suburbia isn't for everyone.

Morey learned that himself when he and his wife decided to move to Wakefield, figuring the suburbs is a better place for a new family. Within two months they were back in Lowell.

"You get there and you're bored to death. You think, 'I've got to at least hear an ambulance so I can sleep,'" he says.

People looking for Morey's CD can find it at Underground Music on Main Street and at Newbury Comics in Cambridge, Burlington and Nashua, N.H. But even if BourbonSoakedHalo flies out of stores, Morey isn't sure he'll do another album like it right away.

That's because while his CD is filed under "folk music," Morey wants to stay clear of being lumped into that category.

Morey says most traditional folk is too serious, and he even pokes fun on his own album at some singers' penchant for rambling spoken-word discussions. Morey's spoken-word offering, "A Damn Good Question," amounts to a dirty joke thinly veiled as a childhood memory.

"My next album will probably go into the dark side more. Maybe I'll do a ska album. I don't plan on it, but you never know," he says. "Right now I'm at the point where I'm booking a tour (potentially of brew pubs). It's all talking and trying to promote myself — and I hate it. I'm ready to record again."

— Neil Fater

Garrity family heads for Michigan

The Coast Guard is once again calling the Garrity family to leave Andover — but only for a while.

The Garritys, of 132 Andover St., will leave July 1 for Detroit, Mich. where Coast Guard Commander Steve Garrity, son of Edna M. Garrity of 6 Cindy Lane and the late Hubert M. Garrity, will assume command of the Coast Guard Marine Safety Office (MSO) Detroit, on July 16.

The family first came to Andover in 1988, stayed for four years, spent three years in West Virginia and have been in town for the past three years.

The family plans to return after this three-year assignment is completed, according to son Michael, 18, who just graduated from Andover High School. "We're renting a house in Michigan," he says.

His father, originally from Michigan-bound — The Garrity family, including parents Barbara and Steve (left and right), with sons Michael, Patrick and Matthew, will be leaving July 1, but hope to be back in three years.

Woburn and a Merrimack College graduate, has served in the Coast Guard for 20 years. He leaves his present assignment as chief of the Marine Response Branch at the First Coast Guard District Office in Boston to take on more responsibility.

As commanding officer of MSO Detroit, Garrity will hold a number of different titles: Captain of the Port, Officer in Charge of Marine Inspection and, when responding to pollution incidents in Michigan, Federal On-scene Coordinator. During his three-year tour, Garrity will work with the Canadian Coast Guard in overseeing commercial port and waterway operations and response activity along the U.S.-Canadian border in Michigan, extending from Lake Erie to Lake Huron.

The new assignment means change for the rest of the family as well. His wife, Barbara B. Garrity will leave her job as a first-grade teacher at Shawsheen School.

Michael, a summertime fixture as a life-guard at Pomp's Pond, will spend his summer on the shores of Lake St. Clair, and then leave for Emerson College in Boston in early September. He hopes to pursue a career in television.

Patrick, 16, will leave Andover High and its soccer program to attend a new high school in Mt. Clemens, Mich. Matthew, 13, will leave Doherty Middle School for a new middle school, also in Mt. Clemens.

Moving is typical for military families. Michael, who was born in Washington, D.C., notes that he has also lived on Governor's Island, N.Y. and East Lyme, Conn., as well as West Virginia. While it is a bit itinerant, "you meet a lot of different people that way," he says.

Active members of St. Augustine, the Garritys say they will miss their many friends in Andover. Until they return to town, they invite anyone traveling to Michigan to visit. They will live at: 472 Strauble Court, Selfridge ANG Base, MI 48045.

Weber — leaving Butler's in good hands.

Butler's changes hands, not identity

Andover shoppers can still get their specialty cheeses, chocolates, sandwiches and gourmet goodies from the Butler's Pantry on Barnard Street, but now they have to get them from Brian Arsnow instead of Jonathan and Toni Weber.

The Webers sold their store after 25 years of ownership to someone they feel will continue to run it the way they would.

Arsnow says he plans to make few changes, and decided to buy the store because he likes it pretty much the way it is.

"It is what it is. That's why people like it," he says.

Jonathan Weber who helped open The Vineyard specialty store in North Andover says his work there, which will continue, is more like running a restaurant than a retail store like the Butler's Pantry.

Toni Weber says she's not making any hasty decisions on her future plans, but she's happy with her career at the store.

"I'm probably going to miss putting the key in the door every morning at 6 o'clock going, 'Wow,'" she says, but adds that now that they've achieved their goal, it's time to move on.

"We're thrilled. It was a great run. We're very proud of what we've done," she says.

She adds that Arsnow was a good choice since he is a long-time customer and community oriented.

After 15 years as a national account manager for a large corporation, Arsnow says his choice to become the proprietor of the Butler's Pantry was partly fueled by a desire to run his own business.

Jonathan Weber says he even had a few offers over the years from people wanting to buy the business, but no one seemed quite as committed to the store as Arsnow does.

Arsnow, a North Andover resident, officially took over the store with his wife Lucy on June 1, while the Webers are still working there occasionally, to help make a smooth transition.

Academy Manor aide fired after elder-abuse charges

By Neil Fater

A nurse aide indicted for alleged horrendous abuse of Alzheimer's unit patients at a Wilmington nursing home, including forcing an 83-year-old to swallow her own feces, has been fired from an Andover nursing home where she more recently worked.

Stacy H. Arruda, 25, of Derry, N.H., will be arraigned Tuesday, June 23, and charged with multiple counts of abusing elderly patients.

According to Attorney General Scott Harshbarger's office, when a Wilmington co-worker questioned Arruda about the feces incident, she allegedly laughed.

The AG's office says it does not have reason to believe Arruda committed similar crimes at Academy Manor Nursing home in Andover, but is investigating the possibility.

"We're still looking into that. There's no answer to that at the moment. We should know by next Tuesday," says Assistant AG Mark Muldoon, who will prosecute the case.

Muldoon says Arruda was hired by Academy Manor after she was fired from Wilmington Woods. Academy Manor says it extensively looked into Arruda's past before hiring her, but it appears because she had not been found guilty, her record at the state registry seemed clean. Also, Arruda reportedly did not include her Wilmington work on her resumé, so Academy Manor did not know to check with them.

The local nursing home has issued a press release outlining the steps it takes to research someone's background before he or she is hired.

Barbara Wilkins, an Academy Manor administrator, says employee confidentiality prevents her from saying how long Arruda worked at Academy Manor before she was fired.

Heinous charges

Including the charge of forcing an 83-year-old woman to eat her own feces, Arruda has been indicted on two counts of elder abuse and seven counts of patient abuse for her treatment of five elderly Wilmington patients.

If convicted she faces up to five years in jail for each elder-abuse count, and two years for each patient-abuse charge, for a total of 27 years. She could also be fined $37,000.

Coworkers have allegedly seen Arruda kick and stomp on the crotch of an 81-year-old woman, slap her on the head and kick her in the shins, says the AG's office. In another incident involving the same patient, Arruda allegedly pushed her out of her wheelchair, grabbed her by the arms and dragged her back to her bedroom.

Arruda has also been charged with spitting into the face of a 92-year-old patient, assaulting an 87-year-old male, and pulling the hair of an 86-year-old patient.

Harshbarger's office says Arruda was responsible for feeding, bathing, dressing and helping incapacitated patients to use toilets.

Coworkers allegedly saw her abuse patients between October 1997 and February 1998.

Prosecutor Muldoon says it appears Arruda may have counted on the patients' inability to communicate to protect her from her alleged actions.

"Eventually, one of her co-workers came forward. The more we dug, the more (alleged crimes) came out," he says.

"It's kind of an ironic situation that she's put in charge of these total-care patients," says Muldoon. "That's what makes it sad. They really need care and she was allegedly abusing them."

"This woman allegedly carried out a reign of terror against some of our most vulnerable citizens," said Harshbarger in a prepared statement. "She allegedly used her position of trust as a caregiver to hurt and humiliate these elderly nursing home residents."

Muldoon says the state Department of Public Health issues a certificate to nurse aides, and Arruda's case is under review. The DPH can determine that a nurse aide should no longer be licensed — a process independent of the courts. So Arruda could be found not guilty in court and still lose her license, he says.

All nursing homes are required by law to check with the state nursing registry to make sure someone they intend to hire is licensed. But in a case such as Arruda's, the registry may show no record of a problem, says Muldoon.

In a press release responding to Townsmen questions, Academy Manor said they did check with the state nurse aide registry.

"We strive to hire caring, qualified professionals to work in our center. Academy Manor has a strict policy of undertaking state and national criminal background checks, verifying all information disclosed in the application for employment, and thoroughly consulting all known references on all potential employees of the center. In addition, we consult the Massachusetts Nurse Aide Registry to verify certification and review past performance records of any potential candidates," said the release.

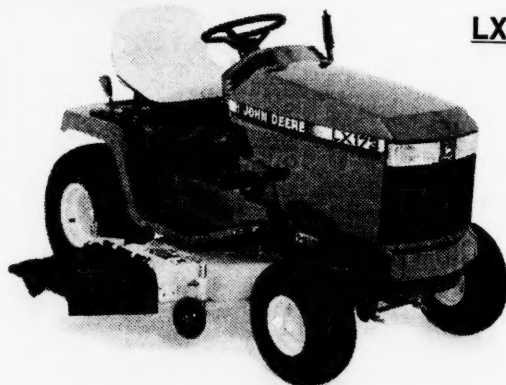

"Policy was followed in the case of this particular employee. There was no record at the time of her employment of any disqualifying activity. She is no longer working at this center."

There's a new John Deere compact tractor out there and it brings you big-tractor performance for a surprisingly low price. Like its famous "big brothers," the new 4100 has oil-cooled brakes that virtually never wear out. A differential lock that gets both rear wheels pulling in slick conditions. And shift-on-the-go front-wheel drive. You'll never have to stop to get the traction you need. The 4100 features a clean-burning, fast-starting diesel engine, kicking out 20 horse-power. Choose an economical 8 x 4 gear transmission, or get the clutchless, high-performance of an infinite-speed hydrostatic. Both transmissions bring you mid and rear PTOs. And the hydrostatic's PTO is fully independent. Thanks to John Deere hydraulics, the 4100 delivers effortless power steering, a responsive 3-point hitch, and fast loading with the available John Deere 410 Loader. Other attachments, include mid- and rear-mount mower decks, front blade, power broom, snow thrower and Category 1 3-point-hitch tools.

Why such high turnover?

It hasn't happened all at once, so perhaps it is time for a reminder that there is some unusually high turnover going on in the local schools.

Not only does the town have a new superintendent coming in from the West Coast, but there will also be a new principal, assistant principal and head of guidance at the high school. System-wide, there will be a new pupil personnel director. And there will be at least nine new teachers.

Turnover is not necessarily a bad thing. It is normal, and at a reasonable pace it keeps a system healthy. New blood brings in new ideas and new energy.

But there is something to be said for old blood, too. There is value in experience. High turnover can be destabilizing. No matter how good a new administrator is, it takes time to learn a new system, personalities and politics, so that a leader can function as something more than a caretaker.

Certainly there is no need to panic about this year's departures. Some of them are due to retirements. The School Committee and other administrators have worked hard to hire qualified replacements.

And this town is hardly the only one to be coping with turnover at the top. It is happening throughout the state.

Still, it is something that should concern local officials. From the outside, Andover seems like the town of an administrator's dreams. It is solid financially. It is filled with bright, successful people, who care deeply about their children's education.

In such an environment, one would think that if administrators are happy, they wouldn't be looking to go somewhere else.

Yes, those who are leaving have nothing but the nicest things to say about their time here. But the fact remains, they are leaving. And none of them have been pushed, at least overtly.

So perhaps it is at least worth discussing what we should expect of our school leaders. Yes, they should preside over the education of our children, but they shouldn't be expected to raise them as well.

Yes, parents have a right and a responsibility to be involved in their children's education. But that doesn't equate to a license to harass administrators over grade point averages, honor rolls and playing time in sports.

Top administrators are paid well, and should expect pressure to do outstanding work. But there is a difference between professional pressure and personal harassment. The one can lead to excellence; the

Another PR campaign we don't need

Taylor Armerding

You might want to sit down before you read this. I don't want you to faint from shock or anything.

I'm holding in my hand a press packet announcing the launch of the 1998 Road Respect Campaign.

This is very official. The major press release in the packet is on stationery carrying the letterhead Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Executive Department, Governor's Highway Safety Bureau. The governor's name is right there on the upper left hand side, along with other important people like the executive director of the bureau.

So we're dealing with experts here. People who presumably know from highway safety.

And within this press packet is just a bit more reassurance that your tax dollars are being wisely spent, collecting the kind of information you and I would never know otherwise.

You might want to get your pencils out, now. According to a statewide survey of 400 Massachusetts drivers, using a Random Digit Dial method, about 90 percent of them believe they have been the victims of aggressive drivers, while only 7 percent will admit to being very aggressive themselves.

In other words, just about everybody in Massachusetts thinks they are under control behind the wheel, and it's the other guy, or girl, who's driving like a maniac.

You never knew that, did you. Sorry. This didn't arrive last week in time for me to stop the presses.

But seriously, I'm wondering if the public servants who commissioned this study really live in Massachusetts. Maybe they've been riding in a sealed limo for the past few decades, with the windows shaded so they couldn't see what's been going on outside.

I'm wondering if they've ever heard the term "Massachusetts driver," and thought about what it means and where it came from, or that it's been around for decades.

Probably I'm just a bit jealous, too, that some polling agency got paid for conducting a survey to find out what I could have told them in 10 seconds, without my vast staff spending three days on the phone calling 400 people.

There's all sorts of other useful information in this survey as well. It tells us what aggressive driving is. Pencils ready?

- Speeding;
- Frequently honking your horn;
- Cursing at other drivers;
- Switching lanes without signaling;

- Tailgating other vehicles;
- Flashing your high beams to make other vehicles switch lanes;
- Cutting other drivers off; and
- Weaving in and out of traffic.

We need the government to tell us this? Have these people ever traveled Route 93, 495 or any other area highway during a rush hour?

Another news flash: Aggressive driving is considered as serious as drunk driving in affecting highway safety. No word on whether being drunk makes people drive more aggressively.

Yet another news flash: The demographic profile of an aggressive driver is a teen-age male from the city, who's running late. I didn't know the government was allowed to stereotype people like that, but I'll leave it to the Urban Teen-age Punctually-challenged Male Anti-defamation League to sue them.

Manager says thanks A 'state-of-the-art' high school

Editor, Townsmen:

On Sunday, May 3, 1998, the Town of Andover celebrated the rededication of Andover High School. I would like to share the following remarks that I gave at the rededication event in the Collins Center that afternoon with the residents of the town of Andover:

The first Sunday in May has become the traditional rededication day for the town of Andover. We rededicated the $8-million addition and renovation work at the South Elementary School on the first Sunday of May in 1996. We rededicated the $4-million addition and renovation work at the Sanborn Elementary School on the first Sunday of May in 1997. And today, May 3, 1998, we are here in the Collins Center to rededicate the $29-million addition and renovation project at Andover High School. These three projects composed the comprehensive building program passed by the voters at the Annual Town Meeting in April 1994 and approved by a debt-exemption vote in May of that year.

These addition and renovation projects touched almost everyone in Andover, whether they be voter, taxpayer, town meeting member, parent, faculty, staff, student or member of a committee that had to approve some aspect or another of this project. Based on this, it is safe to say that this project has touched almost everyone in Andover.

To all of you I say, "thank you, thank you, thank you," for your support, your cooperation, your patience, your passion (in that regard I would like to say that this project involved scores of meetings, many of them became quite passionate, particularly when we were discussing life safety issues of the students, faculty, staff and other occupants of the building), and most especially I thank you for your belief that this project would become a reality and a success.

The reality is that the Andover High School campus is now a state-of-the-art education and community resource. It is used seven days a week by students and the community. It is used for after-school recreation, athletics and other programs. It is used for plays in the Collins Center. It is used for town elections and town meetings. The list of education and community uses of this campus is endless.

The reality is that Andover High School now has the capacity to accommodate 1,700 students in a fully-renovated building, and with additions, increased its size by 40 percent to a 300,000 square-foot building. I might add that a 300,000 square-foot building in Andover is large. We only have a half a dozen buildings in town that are over that size.

Highlights of this building project include:

- A newly-renovated and expanded facility with a new science wing, an enlarged media/library area, an expanded cafeteria, a new field house, a new lobby and additional specialized classrooms.

- In the original 1967 building we have installed new windows and we have replaced lighting, ceilings and flooring. The old electrical heating system was replaced with a forced hot water system.

- In the school, a new fine arts area and new lab for the language arts, computer and the sciences.

- With respect to the site, we have new and renovated playing fields, a new varsity baseball field which we know in a few years will become "the field" in the Merrimack Valley to host high school baseball tournaments.

We have a few more things to do before the campus is 100 percent complete. At the Annual Town Meeting this year, the voters approved $768,000 to replace the old windows in the 1967 sections of the school, replace the Lovely Field running track, install shades in the field house and replace furnishings and equipment purchases previously postponed.

I want to take this opportunity to extend a special thank you to the Board of Selectmen - Bill Downs as chairman, John Hess, Larry Larsen, Brian Major and Lori Becker and retired members Jerry Silverman, Jim Barenboim and Charlie Wesson, and also to the School Committee, to Superintendent Richard E. Neal and the school administration, to Principal Ellen Parker, to the Plant and Facilities Department and its director, Joe Piantadosi, to Senator O'Brien and Representative Finegold, to the High School PAC Lori Jordan and Susan Rice. A very special thank you to Town Counsel Tom Urbelis and the School Building Committee - Jim Marsh as chairman, Marjorie Dennis as vice chairman and all of the members who have served on the committee over the past five years: Steven Bouley, Alan Champagne, Vincent A. Chiozzi Jr., Alan M. Clarke, John W. Ferguson, Susan E. Jenkins, Edward A. Kelley, J. Matthew Lennon, Gilbert E. Martin Jr., Michael P. Parsons and Nancy E. Stolberg. These folks have put untold hours into this project.

I also want to thank Mead Consulting, the project managers, especially Sharman Lappin and Michael McCormick, and the architects, Earl R. Flansburgh + Associates Inc., Earl Flansburgh, David Soleau and David Croteau. I believe the construction was successfully completed because of constant involvement of the town's team.

Cable rate hikes gouge subscribers

Editor, Townsmen:

The article concerning the rate increase by MediaOne was somewhat disturbing (MediaOne hikes cable rates 13.6 percent in Andover," Townsmen, June 4). People in town should realize that although the current rate increase may bring them more service, it is also subsidizing MediaOne Express (Internet connectivity) as well as the new move into telephony that MediaOne will make.

The structure of the current federal regulations allows MediaOne to pass on the cost of doing business to the subscriber. Whatever MediaOne expends, they get back almost immediately, and the federal government allows them. This is broadband, this is the way.

Initially, the Cable Acts of 1992 and 1996 were supposed to increase competition and protect the consumer. To date they have done neither. They have, however allowed MediaOne to charge rates vastly higher than that of inflation. Although the rates are similar to those of greater Boston, it does not make them fair.

The city manager of Lowell and the town manager of Chelmsford have both complained to Congressman (Martin) Meehan about the rate increase. In fact, in a recent letter to the chairman of the FCC, Congressman Meehan wrote, "Annual double-digit increases in cable rates are unacceptable." He also noted that "the competition that Congress envisioned when it passed the 1996 Telecommunications Act has not emerged."

I urge the Board of Selectmen, as issuing authority for the cable television franchise in Andover, to complain to Congressman Meehan as well as the Massachusetts Department of Telecommunications and Utilities. MediaOne should not be allowed to gouge the subscribers in Andover under the guise of expanded service.

I also suggest that the Board of Selectmen invite RCN Cable to consider negotiating a franchise in Andover. They are the only cable television provider willing to do business in a community with an established cable television service.

Don't use students as political 'pawns'

Editor, Townsmen:

I have recently become aware of a practice employed by the School Department, of selectively disseminating political information by having students carry this information home.

This practice disturbs me. There are instances where this method of distributing information is appropriate and aptly used, as in the case of school events, PTO meetings and early dismissals. There are other times when such a method is inappropriate and not in the spirit of community; for example, the distribution of letters containing data or opinions that are related to the current discussions centered on the school space issues.

These decisions affect everyone in town; students, parents of students and other citizens. Yet the School Department doesn't think those citizens of Andover who are not parents of school-age children have a need to know.

When I questioned this practice at a presentation at the Doherty Middle School, I was told that it would cost almost $1,700 to mail these notices to everyone in town. I am disappointed that the same school administrators who are creative enough to try new teaching methods such as block scheduling, are not able to use that creativity to devise a method to inform all citizens without incurring a $1,700 bill. Within minutes, I came up with a list of alternatives that include using the town's home page on the Internet, asking the Townsmen to donate a "community page" once a month, using the local cable station to display information, working with local businesses to display the same notices being sent home and displaying these notices at the library and Town Hall.

Yet the School Department has not made any effort to share this information aside from the letters sent home with students. This makes me question the motives of those writing these letters. Students should not be used as pawns to espouse the political views of a select group. But if this is the case, the schools have a responsibility to allow those with opposing points of view to utilize the same distribution method.

As the school year concludes, I hope this important issue is not forgotten. What values are being taught to our children? Schools should be an environment where knowledge is shared and independent thinking is encouraged. Educators should be teaching students how to investigate the facts, discuss issues, share information and reach consensus. Most importantly, educators should be teaching students the true workings of democracy.

Time to clean up power plants

Editor, Townsmen:

I have been a resident of North Andover for the past 16 years. In this time I have witnessed an increasingly threatening problem - air pollution.

Air pollution is a direct contributor to the deaths of more than 1,000 people in Massachusetts each year. Thousands of people already with asthma and heart conditions become sicker due to the high levels of smog and soot. As a result, more than 8,000 people will be sent to the hospital and 24,000 people will bombard emergency rooms. On top of these concerns there are also threats to the environment, including acid rain, which is destroying our beautiful countrysides, and mercury contamination.

The main root of these pollution problems are coal and oil-burning power plants, which contribute to nearly half of

Get ready for a Bazaar weekend

It could be the biggest sidewalk sale in New England — at least that's what those who participate in it believe. And Bazaar Days, which starts tomorrow (Friday) morning is clearly a town-wide event (See special section inside this edition).

But while it receives substantial public support and endorsements from town government, Bazaar Days is mostly brought to you by the private sector — specifically the Andover Center Association.

That is apparently not obvious to everybody. In spite of the high profile the weekend gets, association members say there is still some local confusion about who is behind Bazaar Days.

The confusion is understandable says Selectman Lori Becker, also the owner of Mom and Me Maternity and former chairman of the ACA for several years.

"There are so many people in town who don't know what the Center Association does," she says, "and that's partially because there are so many groups in town, people can't keep track of them all."

So herewith, a bit of description of the ACA, along with a bit of history about how Bazaar Days began, and grew to the extravaganza it is today.

"The Center Association isn't a chamber (of commerce), and isn't meant to be," says Becker. "A chamber is a business networking group, and this is a group of merchants who got together and decided to have a big end-of-the-year sale."

She is talking about the academic year, of course.

"It started at least 25 years ago, because I used to come down here when I was in grade school. It began with maybe 10 merchants and just grew to become this huge, town-wide event," she says.

The weekend, which functions not only as a clearance of "end-of-season" articles for merchants but also as a sort of celebration for the start of the summer season, has gone through something of an evolution over the years.

It didn't begin as a sidewalk sale, but now is very much an outdoor event, where Main Street and some side streets are blocked off to allow pedestrians to stroll the area without worry about traffic.

For some years, the ACA brought in rides and food vendors, but the membership decided that made it a bit too much like a carnival. The rides are gone, and while there is still food for sale, it is sold by nonprofit groups, who pay a reduced fee for a booth at the event, but then are allowed to keep all the money they raise for the various services they support. There are no raffles allowed.

Tom Keefe of Addison Travel, the current spokesman for the ACA, says he hopes local residents and other patrons who come into town for Bazaar Days know that, "this whole thing is really not for profit. The merchants aren't out there trying to make a killing. This is more or less for good

The cost of $12 includes a full breakfast. For more information or reservations for either event, call the Chamber at 686-0900.

MediaOne connects 100th school

MediaOne of Andover announces that Masconomet Regional Junior/Senior High School in Topsfield is the 100th school connected free to the company's Broadband Internet Access Service, MediaOne Express.

MediaOne Express is the fastest Internet connection available to the computer in the home today. Now in its third year of service, MediaOne Express is available in 65 communities and 550,000 homes in eastern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire.

Richard Sauchuk, technology coordinator for the Masconomet Regional School District, said, "Now that we'll be connected to the Internet, the challenge for us will be to use it effectively in an educational setting. It has tremendous potential for our students, teachers and administration."

MediaOne offers free Broadband Internet service and installation to all public K-12 schools and accredited private elementary and secondary schools within one year, where MediaOne is available.

HIV speakers to share stories

Home Health VNA's HIV/AIDS program has organized a speakers bureau designed to give the public an opportunity to put a face to the virus of AIDS by training clients in presentation techniques and supporting their efforts to share their stories.

Eight clients of the HIV/AIDS program are training in how to effectively express their stories in an effort to educate others.

HIV/AIDS Program Manager Leslie Bresnahan has been joined by clients in her speaking engagements for years, where she provides the educational portion of the presentation, and an HIV/AIDS Program client would follow up with his or her story.

"This allows folks to put a face with the disease — they share what it is like to live with the virus in the community," she said.

Bresnahan says the speakers bureau participants share their common experience of HIV/AIDS, but bring different backgrounds and life experiences to the program.

HIV Volunteer Coordinator Therese O'Donnell has been working with the participants in composing their thoughts on living with the virus and how it has affected their lives. "The main point of the program is to educate the public, and these courageous individuals are willing to share their experiences to make a difference," she says. "They will be providing a valuable community service."

To schedule a speaking engagement, call Leslie Bresnahan at 1-800-933-5593, Ext. 3628.

"We've been able to get the auto dealers to bring out their new cars as well," Keefe says. "This is really unique, and it keeps getting better every year."

Becker says there isn't complete unanimity among the merchants on how it should be done. "Some of the businesses think it's gotten too big, and sometimes customers get their expectations a bit too high," she says. "They want great deals on brand-new stuff instead of end-of-season stuff."

A fabulous Flag Day

Andover schools celebrated Flag Day without a hitch despite a rainy weekend.

The annual patriotic ceremonies at West Elementary School Friday and the first annual flag day celebration at Sanborn School on Monday were both spared from rain.

Andover's Capt. George Street, recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor, presented the flag to the Sanborn School.

Students sang the National Anthem and "It's a Grand Ol' Flag."

Immediately after reciting the Pledge of Allegiance, students, without cue, sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

Witman taught children proper ceremony to show respect for the flag including how to treat, salute, and fold the flag.

"We respect the flag because it represents the men and women who sacrificed to protect our freedom. Next time you see the flag, think of the glorious freedoms we enjoy as Americans," Witman said.

Reitman says the prompting for a special ceremony this year was just a matter of good timing. The school celebrates Flag Day every year, but with less of a "spotlight," she says.

While most people don't think of Flag Day so much as a holiday, but a day stuck between Memorial Day and the Fourth of July, school children often hold it in their hearts as a special day: the day that marks the last week of school.

The West Elementary Flag Day was celebrated in traditional West Elementary style: students and teachers dressed in red, white and blue and a dance with a matching parachute.

The program also included the singing of patriotic songs, and recitation of an original poem by fifth-grader Kelsey Shaw.

Crack habit blamed Cops nab assault suspect

By Neil Fater

A North Andover teen allegedly sought to support his crack habit by robbing an elderly couple at knife point in downtown Andover Saturday night, say police.

Police say the couple had just entered their car, parked on Post Office Avenue, when Jason Hart, 18, of 94 Fox Hill Road, North Andover, knocked on their window and asked them for directions.

But after the couple rolled down the passenger-side window to answer, police say Hart flashed a knife blade and gave directions of his own to the woman in the passenger seat.

"Before they could answer, he leaned into the car, put a knife to her belly and said, 'Don't move,'" says Sgt. James Hashem.

However Hart did not get any money from the couple.

The man in the car grabbed Hart's arm and struggled with him, causing Hart to run. While they couldn't fine him immediately after he fled the area, officers later arrested Hart when he returned to Post Office Avenue. He allegedly told police he tried to rob the couple to support his crack cocaine habit.

Hart originally came to Andover Saturday to attend a substance abuse meeting, say police.

"He was supposed to be going to an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting at St. Augustine (Saturday)," says Hashem. "He saw these people and thought they would be a easy mark, an easy target. He elected to try to get some money for his drug habit instead of going to his rehab."

As a result, Hart may soon be taking one day at a time in jail. He appeared in court Monday and has been charged with two counts of assault and battery with intent to rob a person over age 65, and one count each of assault with a dangerous weapon on someone over 65, assault and battery with a dangerous weapon on someone over 65, and possession of a dangerous weapon. He was held this weekend on $50,000 bail.

Police described the knife allegedly used by Hart as a large silver knife that can be folded into metallic knuckles. The man who wrestled with Hart suffered a small cut from the knife, say police.

Hart was arrested downtown after the elderly couple reported the incident around 8:30 p.m.

Officers Dennis Lane, Edward Higgenbottom Lee Britton, Colin Radford, and Detective Jim Haggerty blanketed the downtown area looking for Hart and notified downtown businesses to be on the lookout.

"A half hour to 45 minutes later we got a call from Cafe LaFortuna," says Hashem.

Workers at that Post Office Avenue restaurant saw a man they believed was involved in the alleged robbery, and one of the Cafe LaFortuna cooks followed Hart.

When police approached Hart, he was talking to a pair of females who had just pulled up to the apartments at the end of Post Office Avenue, says Hashem. Hashem says it's a good thing the restaurant called and police arrived when they did.

"He was obviously desperate to get out of the area," says Hashem, of Hart. "We can assume if we didn't catch him when we did, he probably would have taken their vehicle by force."

Law school wins a round vs. ABA

The Massachusetts School of Law in Andover has won another legal victory over the American Bar Association in its continuing effort to ease the way for its graduates to practice in other states.

The state Supreme Court of Wisconsin recently ruled that MSL graduates who have been admitted to the Massachusetts bar can immediately take the Wisconsin bar exam to practice in that state. The existing "rule of court" in Wisconsin had previously required a candidate to have graduated from an ABA-accredited school.

MSL graduates, who can take bar exams in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Vermont upon graduation, are now allowed to take the exams in Wisconsin, Maine, New Hampshire, California, West Virginia and the Northern Mariana Islands after they are admitted to practice in any one of the former three states.

There are other states where MSL graduates can take the bar exam after three to five years of practice.

Once again, the MSL's petition was opposed by the ABA, which has refused to grant accreditation to the local school. The Wisconsin Board of Bar Examiners and the bar's Board of Governors also opposed it.

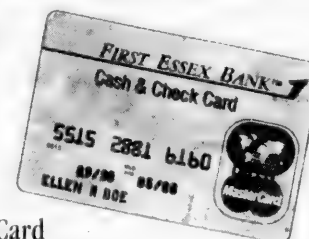

MSL advocates, including Professor Diane Sullivan, Associate Dane Michael Coyne and Dean Lawrence Velvel, argued that there are alternatives to ABA accreditation to evaluate the quality of law school programs, including regional accrediting bodies. They contended that the ABA is too preoccupied with "numerical criteria."

NESWC wins a round in retrofit cost dispute

By Rebecca Lipchitz

Andover residents are in for a big break in trash disposal costs, but just how big remains to be seen.

Members of the North East Solid Waste Committee (NESWC) won a court battle last week in a dispute over who should pay for the retrofit of the NESWC plant in North Andover.

"We are thrilled with the decision," says Steve Rothstein, executive director of NESWC.

State Rep. Barry Finegold (D-Andover) agrees.

"I think it's excellent," he says, describing that and the closing of a nearby incinerator as "a huge week, both environmentally and financially."

Before the judge ruled that NESWC towns shouldn't have to pay the full amount of the retrofit, the Lawrence Ogden Martin incinerator, one of the five operating in the Merrimack Valley, closed its doors due failure to comply with the federal Clean Air Act.

While the Lawrence plant's closing may help clear the air and the court decision may help area residents keep from clearing their wallets, NESWC towns are still bound to the terms of their contract with Wheelabrator, according to Superior Court Justice Regina L. Quinlan.

Quinlan upheld the agreement between NESWC and Wheelabrator plant owner Massachusetts Refusetech, Inc. (MRI), all except for section 7 which determines who pays for what.

Under the Clean Air Act of 1990, the NESWC plant is required to retrofit its pollution control equipment — a project estimated to cost from $32 million to $44 million.

Under the contract, the 23 NESWC communities are responsible for the total cost of the retrofit. Quinlan ruled that making towns pay for the equipment that would ultimately belong to a private company (MRI) was unconstitutional, under policy that forbids public bodies from financially contributing to private companies.

While the ruling determined that MRI and NESWC must split the cost of the retrofit, the judge declined to rule on the percentages of that split.

The division of cost will be determined in an evidentiary hearing, the date for which Rothstein says he hopes will be set within the next few months.

All the NESWC towns, (Acton, Andover, Arlington, Bedford, Belmont, Boxboro, Burlington, Carlisle, Dracut, Hamilton, Lexington, Lincoln, Manchester-by-the-Sea, North Andover, North Reading, Peabody, Tewksbury, Watertown, Wenham, Westford, West Newbury, Wilmington, and Winchester) have a contract with MRI that ends in 2005. The useful life of the retrofit equipment is considered to be 20 to 25 years.

Based on the amount of time NESWC would be using the equipment, NESWC plans to propose that it be responsible for 20 percent of the retrofit costs, Rothstein says.

Also undetermined today is the actual total cost. While NESWC members believe the cost to be about $32 million, MRI estimates it at $44 million.

Rothstein says he expects a final number next week from an independent third party hired by MRI and NESWC to settle the issue and determine the cost.

Patti Powers, spokesperson for Wheelabrator, declined to comment on the decision Tuesday, saying only that, "Our attorneys are reviewing the decision."

Rothstein says getting MRI to pay for part of the retrofit is only a part of NESWC's mission. They are also hoping to get some financial help from the state. He says Andover legislators have been "enormously helpful."

Finegold and State Senator Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) who formed the NESWC caucus, requested that Gov. Paul A. Cellucci issue an executive order to keep any further establishment of incinerators in the Merrimack Valley.

"We feel the Merrimack Valley has been the dumping ground for Massachusetts. We're just trying to spread it out," Finegold says, citing the Department of Environmental Protection's lack of assurance that the concentration of incinerators in the area is not a health hazard.

Since the Lawrence incinerator recently closed, the Merrimack Valley is still home to four others: the NESWC trash incinerator in North Andover; the Ogden Martin trash incinerator in Haverhill; the BFI medical waste incinerator in Lawrence, which processes medical waste from all over the state; and a small medical waste incinerator at Saints Memorial Medical Center in Lowell.

Campaign ...

Anyway, this and other painfully obvious information from the survey is being used to launch the Road Respect Campaign.

What's that? They're glad you asked. It's a "comprehensive educational and enforcement effort designed to make motorists aware that aggressive driving is a leading cause of motor vehicle crashes, and that motorists who drive aggressively risk being cited and having their license suspended."

This is a bureaucrat's dream, a veritable orgy of government buzzwords and phrases. We have "partnerships" among state agencies, "multi-tiered public information campaigns," that will be "coordinating" with other agencies. It will involve "hearings," "collaborating with the private sector," and "maximizing resources" yada yada yada.

I can hear my friend Rob telling me to ease up. "Isn't this an important issue?" he would say.

Of course it is. It is a life-and-death, personal injury issue.

And yes, it is good to see that at least a portion of this campaign is devoted to enforcement. But these laws have been on the books for ages. The logic of making enforcement of them part of a brand-new campaign escapes me. Why were they passed in the first place if they weren't going to be enforced until now?

Beyond that, this is yet another case of government spending time and resources on utterly useless public relations. Once again, the assumption is that if reckless drivers are simply given enough training and education — enough "information" — road rage will disappear. The problem, they say, is that there just isn't enough data out there. Sort of like the assumption that if we just connect every kid to the Internet, they'll all start reading Dickens and Melville, and memorizing quadratic equations.

The fact is that we already have a bureaucracy that requires citizens to pass both a written and a driving test before they get a license. So the information is out there on tailgating, honking horns, making obscene gestures and changing lanes.

We have signs that tell people how fast they're allowed to drive. We have lights and signs that tell them when to stop and go.

We don't need more information. We don't need more laws. We don't need more "multi-tiered education campaigns." We just need enforcement of the laws that already exist.

WHAT'S UP

'Get out of town!'

Venture Out this summer with Andover Youth Services

By Glenn Wilson

The sun is out and summer is here. The freshest way to spend your time off from school is with the Youth Services summer program. Venture Out. How about paddling around in a sea kayak off the shores of Ipswich, sliding 56 times in a row down the Geronimo at Water Country, hiking some of the highest peaks in the White Mountains, or even looping upside down on the Batman ride at Six Flags Great Adventure?

Venture Out is the most unbelievable line-up of summer trips for young people ages 11-15. We have trips for almost day of the week. Don't sit around, Venture Out with the AYS crew and have a wicked good time.

In addition to the phenomenal lineup of trips, there are a number of other activities planned. We have a girls soccer clinic, girls and boys lacrosse summer session, girls and boys lacrosse clinic, a return of our highly successful girls-only trips, and a 10-day backpacking adventure (ages 14 and up).

To get more information on what's going on this summer, or to find out about the trips and prices, pick up a detailed packet at the DCS office or give us a call at 623-8241.

AFF announces spring grants

The Andover Fund for Education has announced the recipients of its spring grants. Mary Routhier of South School, Steve Sanborn of Doherty Middle School, and Jennifer Johnson, Kathy McIntosh, and Laura Tenero of Shawsheen School will receive funds for projects they developed to enhance the curriculums of their respective schools.

Mary Routhier receives the Geraldine Lederfine Memorial Grant for her "Literature Connections" project. Kindergarten students will explore a variety of literature with accompanying manipulatives to re-enact stories and experience a strong, meaningful connection to math.

In Steve Sanborn's project, "A World in Motion," students will learn the process of technological design and the application of technology to problem-solving by designing and building a motorized toy vehicle. This project was made possible through a donation made by David Vining in memory of his wife, Norma.

The team of Shawsheen teachers is creating a library of books for first-graders to extend and enhance the present Macmillan reading program. In the project, called "Everybody Read," the children will be taught reading strategies using classroom-related themes and books appropriate for their level of instruction.

The Andover Fund for Education is a non profit organization founded in 1991 to support Andover's public schools. Twice a year the group disburses grants to Andover teachers for innovative projects that are beyond the scope of the school budget.

the English Prize. The History Prize was presented to Gregory Martin and Matthew Steinert, both of North Andover. The Alice L. Jablonski Science Prize was awarded to Daphne Schatzberg and Kyle Eudailey.

Two Fine Arts Awards were given. Amelia Reeve was recognized for excellence in studio arts and James Tourkistas of Lynnfield for his excellence in the photographic arts.

Those students recognized for their athletic contributions were Martha Dietz who received the Girl's Athletic Award and Benjamin Samel who received the Boy's Athletic Award. Recipients of the Kerri Kattar Award for athletic ability and enthusiasm were William Waters of Andover, Benjamin Rogers and Kristen Rudick.

The John Hopkins Award honored Elizabeth Dipple of Andover and Christopher Straub of Windham, N.H. The Sally Bullard Award was shared by Ryan Armstrong, Rachel Shack and Jessica Wailes, all of Andover.

The June 10 ceremony marked 71 years of students moving on from Pike to the higher grades.

Teens: Stay cool and busy at Memorial Hall Library

Teens will earn weekly rewards, and chances at prizes to be offered at the Ice Cream Bash (sponsored by the Andover/North Andover Rotary) in August. Credit will be given for reading and other fun activities teens choose to do. This program runs June 22-Aug. 20.

Video Tour is a program will combine scripting, producing, videotaping, and other creative opportunities. Teens will be involved in every aspect of producing a video which will "tour" the library. The purpose is to give viewers a "teen's eye view" to the library. The program is limited to 10 participants and will meet Mondays, July 6-Aug. 10, from 2-4 p.m.

If you like to talk and read, why not talk about what you like to read? Express is a book discussion and book review club that will meet once a month to discuss pre-selected books. Participants will choose the titles after the group forms. Teens will also be able to share suggestions and opinions about other books they have read. This program meets July 9 and Aug. 6 from 10:30 to noon.

Teens looking for volunteer opportunities should check out the "volunteer" program whereby teens assist librarians for an hour a week.

Volunteer jobs are available in the following in displays, Summer Reading Club, Internet assistance, and general duties. The program is limited to eight participants. An orientation will be held Monday, July 6, at 10 a.m. and individual schedules will be arranged then.

The library has other surprises for teens this summer. Teens interested in helping plan programs or activities are welcome to join the Young Adult Advisory Board.

Applications are available at the library.

For more information about any program for teens or to register, call Beth Kerrigan at 623-8400 or 623-8401, Ext. 36; or stop by the library.

Third Annual Andover Bike Classic rolls out this weekend

The Third Annual Andover Bike Classic returns to Andover this weekend: Saturday, June 20, and Sunday, June 21, with rides and races for all ages and experience levels. All rides benefit the Greater Lawrence Habitat for Humanity.

Saturday's self-paced fun rides will follow the scenic back roads of Andover. The route has been chosen to acquaint residents with the many AVIS reservations located within the town. Riders will follow a scenic 12-mile route marked with arrows and signs with a rest and refreshment stop along the way. The route was also selected to suit families with younger children. The AVIS reservations to be seen are Farnsworth Land, Burns Reservation, Vale Reservation, Greene Reservation, Shawsheen Reservation, Bakers Meadow Reservation, Indian Ridge Reservation, and Purdon Reservation. The tour will also pass the Phillips Academy bird sanctuary, Spring Grove Cemetery, Spar & Spindle Girl Scout camp and Pomp's Pond.

The tour will start at Town Offices building near the corner of Bartlet and Punchard streets at 10 a.m. Parking is available in the lots adjacent to and behind Doherty Middle School and the Senior Center buildings. To alleviate congestion during Bazaar Days, local entrants are encouraged to leave their cars at home and bike into town.

The following rules apply to all riders:

- All riders must wear helmets.
- Children under the age of 12 must be accompanied by a riding adult for the duration of the ride.
- All cyclists must obey local and state traffic laws.
- Marshals will assist at difficult intersections and will give assistance to riders if needed. The roads, however, will be open to vehicular traffic, so caution by all riders is required.
- The ride is self-paced, so riders should be courteous to others riding at a slower pace.

Registration forms for the bike tour are available by calling 738-3468. On-site registration will be available, however, preregistration is greatly appreciated. The cost is $15 per adult and $5 per child under 12, with 100 percent of the entry fee to be donated to the Greater Lawrence Habitat for Humanity. Additional donations are greatly appreciated, organizers said.

On Sunday, spectators and racers of all ages are invited to participate in the Third Andover Bike Classic Criterium. Activities include races for children, youth and adults, for both new and experienced criterium riders, as well as United States Cycling Federation licensed riders.

The Andover Criterium has again been designated as one of the 26 races that comprise the New England Women's Challenge Series and has been nominated the best criterium bike race in New England. Dick Ring, "The Voice of New England," will be on hand to bring all the thrills and excitement of the races to spectators. The races will begin at noon at the park adjacent to Town Offices and Doherty Middle School on Bartlet Street.

Registration

Registration will be held in the Doherty Middle School gymnasium Sunday, June 21, starting at 11 a.m. Registration closes 30 minutes prior to the events. Entry forms are available by calling 794-0987.

Organizers strongly suggest that if you have never raced a bicycle, you enter the "B" events. The "A" events are for experienced competitors. The children's and most of youth events are free; however, as the race benefits the Greater Lawrence Habitat for Humanity, a donation would be appreciated.

Safety

Andover police will close and control traffic during all races, from noon until 4 p.m. Hay bales, barricades and other safety items will be in place to provide a safe race for all and an ambulance will be present during all events. It is advisable to have your bicycle inspected for any mechanical problems prior to the race and any problems corrected before you race. Contact your local bicycle shop to make an appointment for a safety check.

Kids races

Events for children ages 2-9 are on the 1/4-mile oval running track behind Doherty Middle School. Tricycles and training wheels are permitted in the 2-3 and 4-5 year old age groups. Ribbons will be awarded to all entrants.

Course

The children's events are run on the 1/4-mile running oval behind Doherty Middle School. For all other events, the start/finish line is at the intersection of Bartlet and Punchard streets. [See map, at right.]

The race proceeds clockwise, turning right from Bartlet on to Chestnut Street, right onto Morton Street, up the hill and back down to Bartlet Street, where the racers will turn right and speed into the finish area.

Spectators

There are two prime areas to view the race. The start/finish area is one. Dick Ring will be describing the nuances of bicycle racing, and how the different teams are working to get one of their riders into the lead.

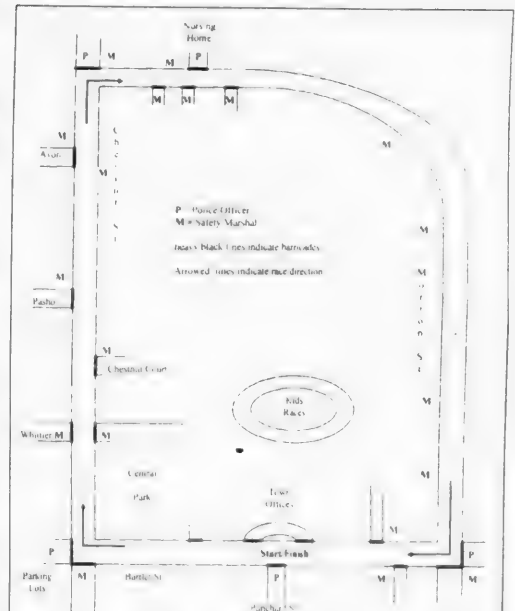

The riders will be racing at upwards of 40 mph to the finish line.

The second area is the hill on Morton Street. Riders will be slowed by the hill and will be showing the stress and strain of trying to keep up. Teams will be looking to get one of their stronger riders off the front of the main field of riders on this hill.

Many tactics will be played out on this hill, organizers said, making it an excellent viewing area.

Remember, riders are expecting the roads to be free of traffic and will not be looking for cars or pedestrians. When crossing any of the streets used in the race, use extreme caution and look both ways carefully. A pace vehicle will be leading the main field of riders, however, there will be stragglers who might not see pedestrians.

Follow the directions of the safety marshals who will be stationed at numerous points around the course. They will be able to assist you in making a safe crossing.

The Andover Bike Classic Criterium course - The children's events are run on the 1/4-mile running oval behind Doherty Middle School. For all other events, the start/finish line is at the intersection of Bartlet and Punchard streets. The race proceeds clockwise, turning right from Bartlet on to Chestnut Street, right onto Morton Street, up the hill and back down to Bartlet Street, where the racers will turn right and speed into the finish area.

Calls to police regarding sewage backups into downtown homes and storm drains that could not keep up with the rain began Saturday morning and continued through Tuesday night. By

Saturday afternoon, even police indoors were feeling the effects of rain, thanks to a leaky roof near the records room.

There was a brief power failure or two early Monday morning around 7:30 a.m. Later in the day, a sergeant reported a Stevens Street manhole cover caving.

But the rain did not give everyone that sunken feeling. Young Darren McRoy, 10, of Stouffer Circle, enjoyed building a log bridge with his family so he could cross a path that had been flooded and transformed to a gully near Haggetts Pond.

Darren says getting his dog Crystal across was the hardest part.

Eight is enough

Candidates flock to the 18th, and even to West Andover!

By Neil Fater

With eight candidates vying for the 18th Middlesex District state representative seat, which includes West Andover, some candidates are doing the almost unheard of — actually paying attention to that section of town.

Lowell City Councilor Rita Mercier announced the kickoff of her campaign at Andover town offices, and has driven a plow with her name on it through town.

Tewksbury School Committee member Scott Consaul requested an interview with the Townsmen, and says he's trying to talk with West Andover residents about their concerns.

Other candidates, such as lawyers Bill Martin and Stephen Geary, both of Lowell, have sent press releases outlining aspects of their campaigns.

All of which should be welcome news to West Andover residents, since many have complained that outgoing Rep. Edward LeLacheur virtually ignored Andover because the bulk of the district is in Lowell, where he benefited from strong support.

Consaul says that as he's talked with West Andover residents, "Everyone's telling me that they've been ignored and that they don't have representation."

LeLacheur himself has said he thought the redistricting that lumped a piece of Andover in with Lowell was unfair to the people of West Andover.

Andover's Precinct 5 has been a part of the 18th, along with sections of Lowell and Tewksbury, since 1993.

But this year, some political watchers believe West Andover voters may have an outside chance to influence the election.

Some even believe the suburbs of Andover and Tewksbury could play an important part in who wins the seat, because Lowell voters may split their votes among several candidates.

Early opinions

West Andover residents will certainly have a number of options to consider.

Also in the Democratic primary hunt besides

Signing up — Rita Mercier, Lowell City Councilor and candidate for state rep in the 18th District, was off and running in April, posing with supporters outside the Andover town offices. Mercier also had her signs plastered on a snow plow.

Mercier, Martin, Geary and Consaul is David Nangle, now on leave from his job as an aide to state Sen. Steven Panagiotakos. Then there is perennial LeLacheur challenger Leo "Buckles" Nolan, and Tewksbury resident and Lowell attorney Karin Theodoros. Lowell's Karen Simao is the only Republican seeking the 18th district seat.

Perhaps to cement suburban support for his campaign, Consaul has been talking about the similarities between Tewksbury and Andover, and says he'll represent all three communities, not just Lowell (see sidebar, below). He says education is one of his top priorities.

Martin indicated the same during his candidacy announcement in Lowell. "Our schools in Lowell need bilingual reform or else we will soon face the crisis like that which is now emerging in California. We need to continue to support construction assistance to relieve classroom overcrowding, both in Lowell and in the surrounding towns in our region," said Martin.

Saying he hopes to fill LeLacheur's shoes, he also announced he "will support initiatives of concern to working class families."

Included in these concerns are getting state tax credits for child care, affordable health insurance and adequate care for insured individuals, long-term care for senior citizens, and targeted tax relief for the poor.

For his part, Geary is pushing to suspend any sales tax on retail goods worth less than $1,500 that are purchased between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Geary says this will benefit both residents and businesses by stimulating the economy, creating jobs, and making good use of the surplus tax revenues held by the state.

"I cannot conceive of a simpler tax cut," he says. "My suggestion is to allocate a percentage of the surplus directly to the taxpayers by suspending the sales tax for one month. As a result, individuals and families of Massachusetts should realize an increase in spending power and disposable income. Clearly, both consumers and merchants of Massachusetts will benefit."

Geary believes this move would keep people from shopping in other states. He says a no-sales-tax week in New York City worked to keep New Yorkers from shopping in New Jersey, and increased New York retail sales 73.6 percent during the week.

A look at one candidate — Scott Consaul

Between work as a Tewksbury lawyer and School Committee member, and play with his wife and daughter, Scott Consaul says he doesn't have much time for his favorite hobbies of golfing and skiing.

If that's true, and things go as he plans, Consaul might have to encase his clubs and skis in mothballs altogether.

That's because Consaul, 35, is one of eight 18th Middlesex District state representative candidates hoping to succeed Edward LeLacheur as the next state representative for West Andover's Precinct 5.

Raised in North Tewksbury and having served on its school board, Consaul says he sees several similarities between Tewksbury and Andover.

Both are struggling with high trash costs, growing school populations and finding the proper balance between industrial growth and suburban character, he says.

"I think both towns are trying to maintain the rural character of their neighborhoods," says Consaul. "I really see West Andover in particular struggling with that issue."

Although he doesn't believe it's a state representative's job to determine the proper amount of industrialization, Consaul says he would fight to keep in his district the companies that work well with the communities.

A full plate — State rep. candidate Scott Consaul might not have time for golf and skiing if he wins the seat.

With both Tewksbury and Andover looking to build more school space, he also says he'll try to quicken the state reimbursement process. In its last round of construction, Andover was eligible for 60 percent reimbursement from the state.

As for the North East Solid Waste Committee (NESWC) trash issue, Consaul says it's time for the state to help find a solution. But he thinks using the trash-to-energy facility is safer than dumping into landfills.

"I think the state has an obligation to step up to the plate and help these (NESWC) communities," he says. "I'm not sure that closing the plant is the answer or that, based on the contracts involved, it is feasible."

As one might expect from a school board member, Consaul campaign is also focusing on education.

"For me it's perhaps the most important issue," he says. "I would like to see the public colleges be more affordable. A child should not be held back because he can't afford it."

Tewksbury currently offers a safe, after-school enrichment program that "is not just a babysitting service," says Consaul. "I would like to see the state encourage those programs with grants or other fundraising."

A former employee of Andover's Rolling Green and member of the St. Roberts youth group in high school, Consaul chaperoned the group while he was at ULowell. Today he is married to Linda Kelley-Consaul and has a 3-year-old daughter, Veronica.

Party on ...

But Ricci says police also take particular notice this time of year, as the school year ends and the summer party season begins.

"We are absolutely stepping up patrols. It's customary for us to break up parties or gatherings. We've already seen large groups at West El in the last three weekends," he says.

He also confirmed the word on the street, which is that one party every weekend travels back and forth between Rec Park and Deyermund Field on Chandler Road, until they are completely disbanded.

Ricci says he hopes this summer is better than the last few years, which brought complaints of noise from neighbors of school grounds, broken beer bottles all over town and some school vandalism.

Other spots in town known for late-night hanging out are Pumps Pond, especially near the water, and the Jenkins Road entrance to Harold Parker State Forest, behind Gillette on Burt Road.

Friel, a former teacher at Bancroft, says some older students were known to party on the roof of Bancroft, since the building is rather isolated.

Don't these kids have anything better to do?

Recent Andover High School graduate Zakk Traynor says that since there is no real designated spot for people his age to hang out in town, they seek the most remote spaces.

Traynor, who moved here six years ago from a suburb of Chicago, says the lack of activities has been a difficult adjustment.

"I just drive around. All you can do in Andover is drive around and look at the scenery," he says.

After praising plans to build a skate park as a step in the right direction, Traynor says Andover needs a recreation center with things like an arcade and pool tables and a soda bar.

He suggests students take their concerns to the top and talk to parents, student government representatives and local officials like Selectman Brian Major and state Rep. Barry Finegold (D-Andover).

"Kids need something to look forward to after school," he says.

Andrew Turco, president of the AHS graduating senior class says it's been a challenge finding places to go. When members of the senior class aren't partying at his place (parents present, of course), he says he often planned camping trips to Foster's Pond. While that area is designated as private property, Turco says there didn't seem to be a problem if the group kept things low key.

Turco says he did the West El and Chandler Road thing, but got bored with it.

"It wasn't really a good time," he says, adding that he prefers camping with his friends over cocoa in the winter.

"You definitely have to be inventive," he says.

Turco is now organizing a trip for recent grads to camp in the White Mountains.

Bill Fahey, Andover's Youth Services director, says he thinks local youth are at times caught between too much to do and too little.

"I think one of the biggest issues is overprogramming (for younger children)," he says. "We have a golf tournament and we get 5-year-olds signing up. I do lacrosse, and I have kids who are playing four other sports. I don't know what's going on, but it seems like we always have to keep kids busy, when there is a need for them to have more unstructured time."

Fahey says kids gravitate toward unstructured activity. He spent several hours playing basketball at West El this week, and "after dark down there, we can have 100 to 150 kids. But they like to listen to music, they make some noise and so the police are kind of stuck (if neighbors complain). It's a community issue just to have a place for the kids to hang out."

Friel has no problem with good clean fun at West Elementary, like older kids who show up after school to play basketball.

"It would just be better if they cleaned up and left earlier," he says.

But Fahey acknowledges that even night basketball isn't going to cure partying and drinking in remote spots of town. "Young people know a lot of sites that you (authorities) can't really get to unless you have a commando vehicle," he says. "Yes, it's a rite of passage, but I do think it's a serious issue. It makes me wonder why they eliminated the drug and alcohol position at the high school. What does that say?"

The arrest of several AHS students for drug possession at a recent field trip to Walden Pond in Concord left some parents "flipping out," he says, "but nobody wants to talk about it. Everybody wants to keep it quiet. And so the kids get suspended or grounded, they cool it for a few weeks, and then they go back to doing what they were doing."

He says high schools students "know how to speak the PC (politically correct) language about race, gender, class and things like that, and they put it on in front of adults. But you take them out of that environment and sometimes there's a real 'old boy' mentality among some of the young males."

Fahey says instead of all the surveys being done on how many kids are drinking or smoking pot, "why don't we reverse it, and ask parents if they know their kid's favorite group, or who their best friends are at school. One of the issues is parents really knowing their kids."

Fahey acknowledges that teens start to drift away from Youth Services programs by their junior and senior years of high school, partially since many are working, but says a variety of activities will still attract them.

"But it has to be things like ultimate frisbee or whitewater rafting," he says. "The older kids don't want to sit still."

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D., F.A.G.D.

REPLACING SENIORS' LOST TEETH

Although more older Americans than ever before may be retaining their teeth, only 2% of seniors have full sets of permanent teeth. Yet, while unacceptable numbers of the elderly still lose their teeth (32% of 65- to 69-year-olds and 49% of those over 80), there are now more and better tooth-replacement options available. To avert the problems that arise after tooth loss, seniors are urged to have missing teeth replaced as soon as possible with bridges, dentures, or implants. All too many avoid treatment in the mistaken belief that they are too old for it to make much of a difference in their lives. They should rest assured, however, that tooth replacement can improve the quality of their lives dramatically.

We believe that most people want to keep their teeth for a lifetime, but we also know that sometimes that is just not possible. Maintaining an attractive smile is certainly more enjoyable and less costly than fixing the problems that are caused by neglect. To this end, we believe that good dental health depends on good habits, proper nutrition, and regular professional checkups. If your goals are the same as ours, call us at 475-2431, or visit us at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93.

P.S. Severe periodontal disease in older adults, which can be helped by treating causative factors, contributes to the likelihood of tooth loss.

start looking for such a job in the next few years.

He came to Andover with four years of administrative experience at Beverly High School.

AEA President Tom Meyers says Leuke will be missed.

"He had a good relationship with the students and staff. We wish him the best," Meyers says.

Incoming High School Principal Larry Robinson says the deadline to apply for the assistant principal's position is early July, and he hopes to hire someone as soon as possible.

"The key to being an effective assistant principal is really getting along with people and being an effective leader," Robinson says.

He says he hopes to find someone with experience as an assistant principal, or someone who at least knows the basics of effective discipline, relates well to students and parents and has a strong background in curriculum and teaching strategies and evaluation.

"And of course they have to have a good sense of humor, because in this job, you need it," he says.

The process to hire a new head of the guidance department is also under way, Robinson says. Ruby Easton, 16-year veteran of the high school guidance department, announced her plans to retire this year.

"My husband retired last year, and he'd like to see me once in a while," Easton says with a smile. She plans to spend more time with her husband and her two new grandsons, but will miss her colleagues and students, she says.

Robinson hopes to fill the position by the end of the month. He aims to find someone with experience who is organized, has a vision for the department and can work well with everyone and has strong knowledge of the role and demands on a guidance counselor.

School Committee members say they're not concerned with the exodus of school leaders, since so far, their replacements have been top-notch.

"I think we're in good hands" says committee member Dick Collins. "Of course it would be better if they weren't all leaving at once, but we have good people and I think we can handle it."

Committee member Skip Eccles agrees. "It's normal for older teachers to retire, and I think we have good people coming in," he says.

Collins, a retired Andover teacher and coach, adds that he saw it coming.

"There was a period where a great many of us went into teaching," Collins says, "(so) when we get into retiring, there's going to be a big exodus. It's just one of those things."

AHS Parent Advisory Council President Lori Jordan says she's optimistic about the new regime.

"We're looking for positive change, to get away from the negativity that surrounds us," she says.

Jordan, also a science teacher out of town, says new teachers bring new ideas with them, and tend to be good at sharing them.

She has patience for the new administrators, she says, who need time to get oriented like new students.

"You have to live in a house for a while before you put the curtains up," she says, hoping people will give the new employees time to get acquainted and opportunities to trust their instincts.

"Most people I've talked to are very optimistic," she says, adding that after scheduling and construction woes, there's only one way to go: "Up."

Moving on

Of the 10 teachers leaving Andover schools this year, at least two are from the high school. Latin teacher James McCann who retired and returned part time, is retiring again.

McCann took early retirement in 1993 from Malden high school and took the option to work part time coming to Andover that year. He taught Latin II and III to high school students who had taken Latin in Middle School.

"My goal was to build up the program," says McCann, who considers himself successful, leaving Andover High ready to hire a full-time teacher for Latin and Spanish.

English Teacher William Becker is heading to Arizona, after 27 years of residency and teaching in Andover.

"I'm not a retiring sort of person. I'm just going on to something else," he says. As head of the English Department, Becker spent his summers writing and has amassed a collection of two books, a play and seven short stories, but every time he was ready to get something published, August rolled around and school started again.

"It just never happened," Becker says.

To be on the safe side, Becker was certified to teach in Arizona last year, but he plans to focus on editing and publishing before he goes back into the classroom.

He also has more to write.

"I have a notebook full of ideas," Becker says.

The high school also bids farewell to fine arts teacher Douglas Lack, who is not retiring but was released by the department due to lack of enrollment demand, says Superintendent Richard E. Neal. One factor that contributed to the lack of enrollments in fine arts was the schedule change that allowed more students to take two math classes in one year, Neal says.

While there has been a letter-writing campaign seeking to preserve Lack's job (see Letters, this edition), Neal says the reduced enrollment in the program led to Lack's release, a move based on seniority.

Still, Andover Elementary school teacher Sondra Finegold spoke in defense of the position at Tuesday's School Committee meeting.

"We could use a fine arts teacher,"

Finegold says, adding that fine arts and music are critical to students' development. She cited a lack of courses in this year's schedule, which put students in study hall or doing community service, when they could have used more fine arts curriculum.

System-wide, key positions are changing hands, from retiring Superintendent Neal to Dr. Claudia L. Bach, expected to take the helm by July 1, and from retiring Pupil Personnel Director Mary French who's been in Andover for 29 years to the new director Cheri Webb from the Tri-town school district.

Other retirements in the system this year include West Middle School sixth-grade teacher Charles Donovan (after 35 years), Doherty Middle School social studies teacher Charles Labelle (after 34 years), Bancroft music teacher Pauline Sparages (after 19 years), South School art teacher Priscilla Hodge (after 23 years), West Elementary School grade-three teacher Carlene Darby (after 37 years) and Sanborn School junior custodian Frances Judge (after 18 years).

Teachers who retired earlier this year include Doherty Middle School math teacher Margaret Dougal and grade-six teacher Sheila LaMontagne.

Smoke but no fire at AHS

To a few students, it may have been a dream come true, but the smoke bomb that went off at Andover High School Wednesday morning in the middle of final exams won't get anyone out of a test, says Assistant Principal Peter Leuke.

Fire Department officials evacuated the school around 7:40 a.m., when a smoke bomb went off under a stairway in the old wing, Leuke says. Shortly afterwards people reentered the building but were evacuated again around 8:30 a.m. when fire department investigators found another device they thought might have been an explosive.

Students and teachers waited outside while the state was brought in to investigate, says Deputy Fire Chief Lincoln O. Clark.

The second finding turned out to be part of the smoke bomb that went off earlier. Since they found nothing dangerous, he says, people were allowed back into the building around 9 a.m.

Leuke says he expects the finals schedule to forge ahead as planned, but is meeting with Program Advisors who met with teachers Wednesday to make sure that works for everyone.

Students stranded outside said they'd rather be in school.

"I could be doing something more productive," said freshman Katie Buckley, who wished she could get on with her three finals scheduled for the day, or go home and work on a big project that is due soon.

Sophomore Pete Hughes said he was upset that the evacuation came in the middle of his history exam.

"I studied for this test for a month. I just want to get it over with," he said, adding that he was being a good student by not discussing the test with his classmates while they stood around outside.

Tomorrow (Friday) is the last day of school for Andover students.

Local church confronts Satanism

By Neil Fater

"When Satan dares your kids" doesn't sound like the type of talk you'd expect from a church on Father's Day.

But since a human skull, bones, and satanic messages written in blood were found across the parking lot from their church, Haverhill Street's BrookRidge Community Church has tried to draw attention to what some members believe is a growing problem.

Too many kids in this area are being drawn into Satanism and the occult, says Pastor Bill Watson. Although Watson makes a distinction between those interested in aspects of the occult and those practicing Satanism, he believes both may be hurting youth.

"With what happened next door, I think it got some people's heads out of the sand. This has been going on in our country for years. Some pretty horrible things take place," says Watson. "The types of folks who are attracted are often hurting young people who are drawn in by the pleasure aspects of it or the power aspects of it."

"The occult is not necessarily the same (as Satanism), but it has the same attraction," he says.

At an Occult Awareness Seminar attended by a small group of mostly Merrimack Valley teens and parents, a handful of people said they knew someone who was involved in the occult.

Paul Awald, a former dabbler in the occult currently studying for his masters of divinity, and Sally Kidd, an Andover psychologist, talked to the group about ways to tell someone is in the occult and ways to help them find other ways to spend their time.

Awald says someone may be getting into the occult if they are:

- showing an excessive interest in Ouija boards, tarot cards or the like;
- collecting a number of books on the subject;
- purchasing incense, herbs and candles; and
- beginning to withdraw from family and friends.

Those who are deeply involved often set up something in their room that looks like a small altar, he says. But he cautions about jumping to conclusions about someone, for instance, just because they wear all black.

"You can't look at a person and tell whether they are a Satanist or not," says Awald. "I remember when I was working (in an occult shop), a man in a business suit would come in and stock up on black candles and black incense."

As far as how to get someone out of an occult group, both Awald and Kidd recommend building a relationship with the person. Awald says people doing this kind of activity often are bitter and lonely. He began dabbling in the occult after he went blind in one eye, and his fundamentalist parents told him his blindness was God's punishment, he says.

"Basically you want to talk to them as a friend. Ask the questions, 'Why are you doing this? What are you getting out of it?'" says Awald. "A lot of times they are so bitter or so lonely, if you get them thinking about what they are doing, they will almost begin to talk themselves out of it."

"There are no magic tools. There are no instant gimmicks," says Kidd. "The issues of the occult are not necessarily issues of logic or reason. You can't reason someone out of that, just like you can't reason someone out of drugs.

"Many times kids feel displaced and it becomes an emotional lure," she says. "Kids who tend to be drawn into it are kids who feel displaced, who feel like they have no real purpose or no place in their family."

To help improve relationships, Kidd recommends parents:

- try to catch their children doing something good;
- focus on the positive things they do;
- spend time with them;
- deal frankly and honestly with children about issues and problems that affect them;
- actively listen and be sure everyone agrees on what was meant; and
- take a break when a conversation gets heated but agree on another time to meet again.

Based on the evidence at the old Yankee Dairy site, Awald says the rooms were definitely used by Satanists. Evidence of crack, heroin and marijuana use was found at the site and Awald says, "Especially in the satanic groups the amount of drug use is incredibly high."

"This was a satanic ritual site. Chances are it was not the Church of Satan. Chances are very good it was a group of self-styled Satanists who came up with their own rules and their own games," he says.

Awald says that based on his experience these types of groups tend to form and disband in a matter of months due to power struggles.

The Willows Dental Group

Rachelle A. Ezzi, D.M.D. has recently joined John A. Schrader, D.M.D. in providing the community with preventative family dentistry using the latest technology and trends in dental medicine.

The Willows Dental Group's newest technical advancement is a digital x-ray system that uses 90 percent less radiation exposure than traditional x-rays. The development is instantaneous enabling both the dentist and the patient to view the teeth on an imaging screen.

Drs. Schrader and Ezzi perform innovative techniques in cosmetic and restorative dentistry. These include white fillings, porcelain veneers, and bonding. They also handle crowns, bridges, and root canals.

Some of the adult problems addressed by Drs. Schrader and Ezzi include treatment of "TMJ" (temporal mandibular joint), halitosis, and patients who grind their teeth.

Pediatric patients are also welcome at The Willows Dental Group. They are treated with cavity preventing fluoride sealants.

The dental professionals at The Willows Dental Group are trained specifically in cleaning, sealants, performing x-rays, and overall hygiene instruction.

After appointments, patients can stop by the Dental Depot within the office and stock up on all their oral care products.

Insurance is accepted and emergencies are usually handled the same day. Hours are: Monday 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., Tuesday, 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m., Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, 8 a.m. to noon.

The Willows Dental Group is located at The Willows Professional Park, 795 Turnpike St. (Rte. 114), North Andover. Telephone: (978) 685-8313.

all the pollution in the state. The worst of this is that five power plants do not have to conform to current clean air policies and standards due to the fact that they were built before 1977. Cleaning up these five plants would be the same as taking more than three quarters of a million cars off the roads.

The one that is closest to me and has the most impact in my area is Salem Harbor. This plant alone has sulfur dioxide levels that are more than 445 percent above current standards, and emission levels of nitrogen oxide are 123 percent above standards. These are two components of smog and acid rain, which are main contributors to the deteriorating health of citizens in my community. Forcing this plant to clean up would be the equivalent of taking over 189,000 cars off the roads.

Air pollution in this state is causing illness and even death, and needs to be cleaned up immediately. We must appeal to Governor Cellucci to clean up these old coal and oil power plants. He is the one person who has the power and authority to protect our health and environment by requiring the filthy five to meet current clean air standards.

If enough communities in Massachusetts call on the governor to change the current status, then he will be forced to address the issue. This being an election year, it becomes an even more urgent and pressing issue that Governor Cellucci needs to address. I urge everyone that is concerned to write a letter to the governor to express your standpoint. Letters can be addressed to:

Governor Cellucci
 Statehouse

or call at: (617) 727-9173.

This is a small price to pay for clean air.

Grad coverage good, but missed a few things

Editor, Townsmen:

I am the parent of a recent graduate of Andover High School and am writing regarding the recent coverage given the graduation ceremonies.

The photo coverage was great because many different groups of students and awards were noted and photographed. I would, however, have liked to read the written text of the speech given by Andrew Turco, class president at the Awards Brunch and the speech given by J.P. Sarni, class essayist, at the graduation exercises.

Both these young men had eloquent and poignant things to say. Given the emotion of the day, it was difficult to recall exactly what was said. In later years, members of this class would have enjoyed reading them again.

Also there was no mention of the invited guests to the 1998 graduation exercises — the class of 1948. I am particularly dismayed, because not only is my son a member of the class of 1998, but my father (his grandfather) is a member of the class of 1948. I think it is important to accentuate positive and strong connections between generations. I know that this evening was made more exciting and memorable for my son because of the fact it was his grandfather's 50th class reunion, whose graduation date was June 8, 1948.

The Townsmen has always had the reputation of incorporating the relationships between generations in Andover. I had hoped that events as significant as these would have received more attention in your publication.

People are unhappy about parking

Editor, Townsmen:

I would like to thank Neil Fater and the Townsmen for the well-written article on my "free parking petition" ("She's hoping for advance token to Free Parking," Townsmen, June 11) My only regret is that my hair did not look better that day. I would have had it professionally done, but I ran out of change.

With regard to Chief Pattullo's belief that merchants "don't mind" the parking problems — I have spoken to local business people and they are losing customers because of the parking issue. They do mind. Also, I must say it is true that motorists have been on the receiving end of much rudeness and most people who have been spoken to in a rude manner are women. This ought to be addressed.

No, no one believes that women "get more tickets" — of course not — but more females than males reported to me that they were "shouted at" or had experienced "confrontation" with "certain people." This is not right or fair. This rudeness is wrong.

People in our nice town are not happy about their parking situation. I know. I've got 350 people who agree with me.

Another voice in support of Mr. Lack

Editor, Townsmen:

I would like to strongly echo the feelings of a recent letter from parents Richard and Linda Duarte ("Parents urge AHS to keep Mr. Lack," Townsmen, June 11) regarding Mr. Douglas Lack, an outstanding AHS art teacher.

I too, was quite disturbed to learn that Mr. Lack has not had his teaching contract renewed for the 1998-1999 academic year. I cannot speak highly enough of Mr. Lack. My ninth-grade daughter had Mr. Lack for a beginning art course during the third quarter of this year. In addition, she has actively participated in the art club and spends most Wednesday afternoons after school working on a variety of art projects.

Both from my daughter's ongoing reports and from my observations and conversations with him during school open house night and on several other occasions, Mr. Lack is not only an excellent art teacher, but also someone dedicated to helping adolescents grow and learn to be responsible, focused and involved students. The way he runs his classroom demonstrates his caring and concern and his ability to foster these qualities in others. His enthusiasm for teaching young people and his joy in his work at AHS is quite apparent and wonderful to witness. Mr. Lack's commitment to AHS students both during and after school hours speaks to his long-term dedication to the youth of our community.

I understand that teachers may have been hired at the high school second semester to fill in study halls created by the four-by-four block scheduling problems, and that some of these teachers may not be needed if alternate day block scheduling is used next year. Obviously, Mr. Lack was hired prior to second semester. I understand that in any particular year, fewer students may take certain particular elective courses. I also recognize that art may not seem like a top priority to those understandably concerned with the traditional academic accomplishments of AHS students. However, I believe that art is a vital component to creating well balanced, creative, life-long learners and in addition provides an opportunity for students to excel in non-academic endeavors. The strong art program available at AHS is a very positive component of the rest of the high school's excellent curriculum.

I strongly urge Andover High School students and parents to let the administration know you value this exceptional teacher. I urge recently appointed superintendent Dr. Claudia Bach and newly appointed AHS principal Mr. Larry Robinson to reconsider the decision others have made and instead renew Mr. Lack's contract. His loss to Andover High School students would be most unfortunate.

Student pleads for Mr. Lack

Editor, Townsmen:

I know that you have already received many letters about the recent layoff of the Andover High School art teacher, Mr. Douglas Lack. However, there are some things that I also wanted to express.

Even though Mr. Lack has only been teaching at AHS for one year, he has still given so much to the art program, to the high school, and to the students.

Mr. Lack has been my studio 1, painting, and art-independent study teacher this year. He not only teaches students art, he teaches them about themselves. He doesn't want us to just draw a picture, he wants us to portray ourselves somehow in that picture.

For example, at the beginning of our painting class, we had to choose an object that best represented ourselves. In every painting we did, we had to include or incorporate our object into the painting. If the creators ever went through a change in their life, their object would also have to change, so that it continually and correctly represented its creator. We'd then discuss our paintings and talk about what it meant to us and what it was trying to show everyone else.

Aside from being a great art teacher, he is also the kindest and most caring person that I have ever known. He always has time, or takes the time, to talk to students about anything that may be bothering them. He listens to our problems and tries to help out in any way that he can. He has helped me out so much this past year, I don't think that I will ever be able to thank him enough.

There are many teachers at Andover High School, but not many of them can say that they love kids and love teaching as much as Mr. Lack does. He is the best teacher I have ever had and ever will have. There are so many people in this school who care so deeply about him. I can't stand to think that he is being forced to leave because there is one too many art teachers at AHS, and since he was the newest addition to the fine arts staff, he is supposedly the one that has to leave. You could never put a price tag on what Mr. Lack has done for the students at Andover High — everything that he has done and has taught us is priceless.

Mr. Lack is my teacher, my role model and my friend, and is these same things for countless others. Andover High School has no idea of what it is losing by letting go of Mr. Lack. If there is anything that can still be done, somebody please do it, so that we don't lose such a wonderful and important teacher.

Phillips cookbook goes regional

An Andover cookbook has made its way into a regional book of recipes called Hometown Cooking in New England.

The book, published by Down East Books in Camden, Maine, takes recipes from more than 100 previously published cookbooks in the five-state region. Among them is The Andover Cookbook II, produced in 1993 by the Phillips Academy Ladies Benevolent Society.

Elaine Bailey, a retired house counselor at PA and a member of the society, says she was unaware that what the society refers to as "The Passport Edition" was included in the compilation, but says she's glad the recipes may get to a wider audience.

The society, she says, nicknamed "Benevie," was founded in March, 1831, and is the oldest women's organization in the country. While it originally included just daughters of faculty members, it has expanded to include faculty, staff, alumni and family members of all those. The latest cookbook, she adds, included recipes from the "extended school community," both male and female.

Committee keeps AHS schedule changes

By Rebecca Lipchitz

Andover High School schedules for next year are expected to be in the mail to students by the end of this week, said Superintendent Richard E. Neal at the School Committee Meeting.

When AHS administrators decided to go to an alternating day (A/B) block schedule next year, changing from this year's semesterized block schedule, teachers objected, saying they preferred the schedule that was in place.

But Neal said Tuesday that the School Department supports the administrations decision to move to the A/B.

"Their input was compared with the proposed schedule, and a course by course comparison and analysis was done," Neal said.

The administration decided to stay with the A/B schedule for reasons including continuity of course work, especially for 9th and 10th grades in math and world languages, plus the timing of MCAS, SAT and achievement tests, Neal said.

After the announcement, AEA (Andover Education Association) President Tom Meyers said he was "very disappointed" with Neal for discussing the issue publicly, since it was an issue currently in collective bargaining.

"We ask you to consider this key thing: success is contingent upon teachers buying into it. If you stuff something down people's throats, guys, it isn't going to work," he told the committee.

Committee chair Eric Nadworny said he expects to continue to negotiate the impact of the schedule change in bargaining.

"But we firmly believe that (the schedule choice) should be a decision made by the administration," he says.

AEA Vice President Kerry Costello said she was "discouraged, disappointed and disheartened," that the schedule teachers supported was not supported by the administration.

"Perhaps we can reenergize and work together, but if our administration does not reflect how we feel, it's a mighty challenge we all have ahead of us," she said.

High School PAC President Lori Jordan said parents who spent long hours helping work out a schedule have one priority: a smooth opening to school.

Parent and teacher Sondra Finegold agreed, and added that while she is "90 percent for community service" she would not be pleased to see it built into the school day next year like it was last year.

When many students were left with study halls due to scheduling problems last fall, more than 200 of them opted to do community service.

Finegold said that's something they should do on Saturdays or after school, and their short time spent at Andover High School should be in class.

Town hires part-time inspector

To relieve the backlog of building inspections since one Andover building inspector was fired and the other is on medical leave until August, the town has hired part-time building inspector Stuart LeClair.

LeClair works four days a week as a building inspector for a town on the south shore and had Fridays available to work in Andover says Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski.

He expects to keep LeClair on the job until local Inspector Michael Buss returns from medical leave in August.

Buss began a three-month medical leave May 17 leaving the department with one building inspector, Peter DePesa, who was fired effective May 22.

Since then, almost all of the inspections are being handled by Building Division Head Kaija Gilmore. A few inspections of foundations are handled by Plumbing Inspector Bruce Hale, Stapczynski says.

LeClair worked as a building inspector in Reading and part-time in North Reading before going to his current position.

Reading Personnel Administrator Carol Roberts says LeClair worked for the Town of Reading from May of 1985 to March 30, 1994. Neither Roberts nor Reading Town Manager Peter Hechenbleikner would confirm the circumstances of LeClair's departure.

Enrichment events are a hit with Sanborn students

The students at Sanborn School have participated in a variety of events sponsored by the PTO's Curriculum Enrichment Committee this school year.

Third-grade students created the audience for a Sanborn favorite, marine biologist Ellen Goethel. Her presentation invited students to explore the ocean world with a multitude of hands-on experiences.

Fourth-graders heard tales of immigration from storyteller Elisa Pearmain to tie into the social studies curriculum. Her stories involved young people who had left their home country in search of a better life in America.

Sanborn also played host and was treated to a school-wide presentation by the Bouncing Bulldogs, a jump-roping team based in North Carolina. In addition to the tricks, flips and acrobatics used in their award-winning performances, self esteem and confidence-building are key ingredients emphasized by these students and their coach.

First-graders were visited by a resident of Plimoth Plantation and learned about the 66-day journey across the Atlantic and why "casting up our stomach" was a popular phrase. They were also taught expected etiquette of Colonial children and the mandatory daily chores of folding blankets, getting water, starting the fire, heating water to wash, milking goats and cows, gathering eggs, and feeding the animals, all before a breakfast of beer, bread and cheese. Each first-grader had the opportunity to try out some of the more popular toys of the day including a poppet, ball and cup and marbles.

Kindergartners and fourth-graders were educated and entertained by Jim Parks of Wingmasters, a nature photographer and raptor rehabilitator who has traveled throughout the country in search of birds of prey in their natural habitat. Students witnessed the beauty of these winged creatures and learned of their importance to the Native American culture.

One of Sanborn's most favorite performers, GerwickPuppets, delighted the second grade with the Adventures of Thornton W. Burgess. Music, lighting, script and drama were blended by puppeteers Lenny Gerwick and Debra Costine to supplement the fine arts curriculum. After the performance, students participated in a puppet-making workshop. Partial funding for this event was provided by a grant through the Massachusetts Culture Council.

All students were treated to Bubblemania, hosted by Casey Carle, comic bubbleologist. Students watched ordinary bubbles turn into a space ship, crystal ball, a cube and more. They learned the secret recipe to making perfect, long-lasting bubbles while learning about the properties of bubbles. The Andona Society provided partial funding for this event.

For the second year in a row, all students participated in a week-long Authorfest. The list of authors who visited the school this year included Lyn Littlefield Hoopes, Brian Lies, Nora Dooley and Mary Chivers. All the children also prepared their own written works and presented them to their parents and guests during Authors' Tea.

Sanborn kindergartners joined their fellow classmen from all the Andover elementary schools for the traditional all-town kindergarten enrichment event. This year Johnny the K sang while using audiovisual aids and student participation. He taught them about the environment and how important it is for each of us to do our part to help. This year's performance was held at South School.

High Tech/High Touch closed the school year of enrichment events with workshops for all third-graders. This program, which follows the state's suggested curriculum frameworks, is "totally hands on, totally participatory," proving science is fun.

ABC House at 134 Main St. got a much needed face-lift recently that will allow the building to be used as home base for a community service program this summer, ABC President Candy Dann said.

The work included renovation of the resident directors' kitchen. The kitchen improvement was a key prerequisite to use of the house this summer by "Summer of Service," a community service program for middle-school students from Greater Boston. The students will work at various projects in the Lawrence-Andover area, beginning and ending each day at ABC House. The summer program is under the direction of Mike Ebner, Protestant chaplain at Phillips Academy and ABC board member.

ABC, which stands for A Better Chance, also receives local backing from individual contributors and help from volunteers. It offers housing and support services to minority-group students from needy urban families who were chosen to attend Andover High School because of their academic potential.

The program provides them a pathway to better educational resources, increasing their chances of getting a top-rate college education and entering a career of their choice. This year's graduating seniors are Elizabeth Blanco, accepted by Vanderbilt University; Christine Cruz, University of Rochester; and Kirza Sanchez, Barnard College. All three were promised major financial support.

Eight girls lived in the house this school year. In addition to the face-lift, the recent contributions will enable ABC to increase the program to nine or 10 students in the fall.

Andover ABC is one of only 25 public school programs in the U.S. that are part of the A Better Chance program.

South School's first-grade parents were recently invited to a Young Authors' Tea. The students were reportedly excited to produce a collection of their writings for this year.

"It was a wonderful opportunity for the proud students, parents and grandparents to share in the children's learning experiences," organizers said.

Local students graduate from Brooks School

Five Andover residents were among the 69 young men and women graduated from Brooks School at ceremonies held May 31 at the School's North Andover campus.

Elizabeth Shewell Bradshaw, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Peter Bradshaw of Andover, graduated magna cum laude from Brooks School. Elizabeth was the recipient of the Spanish Prize and achieved high distinction in English, history, science and Spanish. She achieved distinction in mathematics and theology.

While at Brooks Elizabeth participated in cross-country, crew, drama, the yearbook, and is a member of the Cum Laude Society. Elizabeth will attend the University of Pennsylvania in the fall.

Andrea Lynn Goldberg, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Goldberg of Andover, graduated magna cum laude. Andrea was the recipient of the Kerri Ann Kattar Prize, awarded by the faculty to a member of the graduating class in remembrance of Brooks alumna Kerri Ann Kattar.

Headmaster Lawrence W.

Becker said, "In everything she does, Andrea gives 100 percent. Her energy, her boundless enthusiasm and great spirit are her trademarks, along with her quiet determination."

Andrea achieved distinction in English, history, mathematics, science, Spanish and theology.

Andrea participated in cross-country, squash, tennis and was a campus tour guide while at Brooks. She was a member of the Phillips Brooks Society, Cum Laude Society, a dorm and Chapel prefect. Andrea will attend Tufts University in the fall.

Victoria Costello, daughter of Andrew and Michelle Costello of Andover, was the recipient of the Athletic Prize, awarded to a senior who has distinguished themselves in sportsmanship, athletic ability, and whose achievements have demonstrated an outstanding record in the athletic life at Brooks.

"Coaches appreciate her leadership on the field and off," said Becker. "Teammates also appreciate her concern for the whole team, her enthusiasm, her humor, and her ebullient spirit."

While at Brooks Victoria participated in soccer, ice hockey, lacrosse, glee club and The Eagle. She was a member of the Ashburn Society, Brooks Brothers and Sisters and a campus tour guide. Victoria will attend Hobart College in the fall.

Cristina Maria Savage, daughter of Paul and Paulina Savage of Andover, was the recipient of the Harvey P. Hood Prize and the Russell Morse Prize. The Harvey P. Hood Prize is awarded in recognition of special interests, such as working with young children, making things with one's hands, and in memory of a lively, gentle view of life. The Russell Morse Prize is awarded to senior who has made distinguished contributions to the visual arts at Brooks.

"Over her four years at Brooks," Becker said, "Cristina has chosen her own path. And while her direction was perhaps not always clear to us, she is today recognized as a good student, a good citizen, a contributing athlete, and the best artist we have seen at Brooks in recent years."

Cristina achieved distinction in art, drama and Spanish.

She participated in field hockey, crew, drama, pottery club, the Spanish Club and the literary magazine. Cristina will attend Skidmore College in the fall.

Asma Ali Syed, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Abrar Syed of Andover, also graduated from Brooks.

While at Brooks Asma participated in the fall club, ice hockey, lacrosse and was a member of the Ashburn Society. Asma will attend Mount Holyoke College in the fall.

SCHOOL TALK

In honor of retiring music teacher Pauline Sparages, Bancroft Elementary students were treated to a performance by Gospel singing group Ain't That Good News (at left).

The performers gave a brief history of Gospel music to the students and had the whole school singing, smiling, and rocking to the rhythms of songs such as Wade in the Water and Oh, Happy Day!

The performance, dedicated to Sparages, featured musical award-winning jazz vocalists Semenya McCord (center) and Wannetta Jackson (right), singer/composer Byron Gibbs and keyboard player George Russell Jr., a jazz musician and teacher at New England Conservatory of Music.

Sparages gave a heartfelt speech to her students after being recognized as a "real inspiration to her school," and encouraged them to always keep a "always keep a song in their hearts."

Little League playoffs to start

By Rick Harrison

Andover Little League playoffs in the Major 11-12 and Senior 14-15 Divisions were scheduled to begin this week, weather permitting, with Town Championship series between the finalists just around the corner.

The annual double-elimination District 14 All-Star Tournament will begin in early July, and The Townsman will again follow the Andover teams throughout the tourney and publish game results weekly.

Local teams have traditionally done well in the tournament, the most memorable showing in the summer of 1988 when the Andover National Major Little League All-Stars won district, sectional, state and Northeast Regional titles on the way to a 16-1 record and a berth in the annual LL World Series in Williamsport, Pa.

Andover went 1-2 at Williamsport, losing to Spring, Texas (8-2) and Saudi Arabia (2-1) while beating Panama (2-1).

Standouts on that team included Rick Saggese, Toby Guzowski, Paul Allard, Matt Wolcott, Todd Harris and Danny Hansberry.

The team was coached by Jim Arnold, John Murphy and Red Harris.

Saggese later moved to Florida and played in three College World Series (including this year) with the University of Miami.

It's summer, and Andover Post 8 American Legion baseball is underway

By Rick Harrison

The Andover Post 8 American Legion baseball team was scheduled to launch its six-week 1998 regular season last night with a home game at Merrimack College Warrior Field against visiting Winthrop Post 146.

Post 8 is the defending Zone 8A, District and Sectional champion, putting together a 28-4 overall record last summer and advancing to the State Legion Tournament semifinals where the locals were ousted 9-3 by eventual state champ New Bedford Post 1 at Lake Park's Tivnan Field in Worcester.

Over the last eight summers Post 8 has won six Zone titles, including four of the last five, four District crowns and qualified for the state tourney four times while winning close to 200 games.

"We've had pretty good success," understated head coach Joe Iarrobino, who enters his ninth year with the Post 8 program and eighth as head coach.

Young team

The six players who graduated from last year's team are top three pitchers Rob Busby (7-1), Mark O'Sullivan (6-0) and Ted Payne (6-1), along with first baseman Steve Vickers, catcher Keith Grant and pitcher/outfielder Dan Goselin.

"We have four starters and 10 veterans back, but this (1998) team is the youngest I've coached with only two 18-year-olds on the (18-player) roster," said Iarrobino.

The returning starters are second baseman Scott Petersen, shortstop Rick Johnson, catcher/third baseman Ryan Hanigan and first baseman/outfielder

Ben Gibson.

Petersen and Gibson are the only 18s.

The pitching staff is headed by 17-year-old righthanders Jason Daley and Mark Rocca, with Daley doubling as a first baseman and Rocca as a third baseman.

Daley posted a 5-0 record last summer, including a state tourney win over Greenfield (19-2). Rocca was 3-1 as both a starter and reliever and capped the season with a strong four-inning relief stint in the finale against New Bedford.

Other pitchers are 16-year-olds Paul Wysocki, Mike Giles, Charlie Daher, Rich Sheldon and Danny Hughes.

Sheldon and Hughes are lefties, while Wysocki and Hughes pitched Andover Gold to the Suburban Pony League championship last summer.

Sheldon and Daher also play first base, Hughes is an outfielder and Giles can play short or the outfield.

Other 16-year-old players are outfielder Dave Powers, second baseman Andy Bellistri and third baseman Sean Lawton.

Completing the Post 8 roster are catcher/third baseman Josh Topp, outfielder Jeff Marshall, catcher Bob Mazza and lefty pitcher/outfielder Kevin Shepard.

Petersen, Johnson, Hanigan, Gibson, Hughes, Daley, Rocca and Lawton were all integral members of the Andover High varsity baseball team, which recently completed a 17-5 season while placing second in Merrimack Valley Conference Division 1 and advancing to the Division 1 North Tournament quarterfinals.

Wysocki, Sheldon, Powers, Daher and Giles also saw varsity time at AHS, while Mazza was the starting varsity catcher at Cushing Academy prep school in Ashburnham.

Kevin Rourke returns as Post 8 assistant coach.

Late start

Post 8 was forced to postpone its first four games — last Wednesday and Thursday with East Boston and Winthrop because AHS was still in the high school tournament — Saturday and Sunday with Haverhill Post 4 and Beverly Post 331 because of the weekend rain.

Winthrop was re-scheduled for last night and the other three will be made up at later dates.

Post 8 will play about half its home games at Merrimack College and half at the new Andover High field this year. Next summer all home games will likely be played at AHS.

The Legion schedule has been modified this year so that each team will play all others in the 20-team District once.

The five teams with the best records after 19 regular-season games will qualify for the best-of-3 Sectional playoffs against teams from other Districts.

Sectional champs and the host team will make up the field for the eight-team state tournament in August.

Andover's District has the same number of teams as last year, with newcomer Newburyport replacing North Andover Post 219 which dropped out.

Other Post 8 opponents will include Lawrence Post 15, Methuen Post 122, Middleton Post 227, Haverhill, Salem Post 23, Peabody Post 153, Revere Post 61, Lynn Post 6, Lynn Gautreau Post 345, Marblehead Post 32, Danvers Post 180, Gloucester and 1995-'96 state champ Swampscott.

Andover has not yet committed to but may play in the annual Skip Morrison Tournament in Lynn later this month.

Other non-league games are tentatively scheduled against Lowell Post 87 and Nashua, N.H. Coffey Post 3.

Weekend games

The next game is Saturday at Merrimack College versus Gloucester, and Sunday Post 8 hosts Revere at Andover High.

Both games start at 5 p.m.

Stellar season

Last summer Andover finished the regular season at 21-1.

In the first state preliminary best-of-3 playoff series, Post 8 edged Arlington 2-1 by winning the last two games (7-0 and 10-5) after losing the opener (8-3).

Andover then swept Lowell, 13-7 and 11-10, to qualify for the State Tournament.

At the double-elimination states, where Post 8 also won three games and reached the semifinals in 1992, Andover lost its opener to New Bedford (7-6).

The locals then beat Lynn Post 6 (9-8), Greenfield (19-2) and host Eastside Post 201 of Worcester (5-4) before bowing out to New Bedford (9-3).

Returning players Scott Petersen, Ben Gibson and Ryan Hanigan all hit well in the five state tourney games.

Lacrosse is taking the youth sports scene by storm

By Rick Harrison

One of the hottest sports on the Andover athletic scene is lacrosse.

Although Andover High does not yet have a club or varsity team, that could change if the interest continues to grow among pre-high school age youngsters in town.

Andover Youth Services coordinator Bill Fahey and his staff re-instituted a spring and summer youth program two years ago, and the popularity of lacrosse is evidenced by the 150 boys and girls playing on six travel teams.

About 15 years ago a group of Andover High athletes, most of them football and soccer players and gymnasts, tried to start a club team at AHS.

There was enough interest among the students, but the lax program never took off presumably because a qualified coach could not be found.

"The Andover youth program has really been cranking for the past two years, thanks to the AYS and Bill Fahey," said former Andover High football/track standout Mark Farnham.

Farnham, a standout wide receiver on two Andover High Super Bowl football teams, was introduced to lacrosse at Brown University and became a two-time All-American on defense for the Bruins.

He also played briefly after graduation with the Brine

Club, a Boston-area based adult professional team.

Now he has children of his own playing the game in-town, and last week Farnham was elected president of the newly-formed Andover Lacrosse Advisory Board, which will assist the AYS with all aspects of the program.

Travel teams

Andover has fielded two Boys 14-Under, two Boys 12-Under and two Girls 14-Under travel teams that compete with 58 other communities around the state in the Mass. Bay Youth Lacrosse League.

Home games are played throughout the spring on the field behind Doherty Middle School, and one of the Boys 14-Under teams has gone undefeated for two years.

"The organization is booming," said Farnham. "We have kids at the middle school level who are really turned on by the sport. They're having a great time. It's been a very positive experience."

"We have fund-raising projects all year and it's a self-supporting program" (travel-team youngsters are assessed a $100 registration fee).

Now that the spring league season has ended, a summer program kicks in with informal twice-a-week sessions on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

"The summer is a very relaxed time where the kids play pick-up games for a couple hours," explained Farnham.

There is also a summer camp scheduled for kids ages 8-17 years the week of Aug. 3-7.

The camp is a combined Andover/North Andover undertaking and it will be held at North Andover High.

This Saturday seven of Andover's best travel team players will participate in an All-Star Lacrosse Festival at Beverly High.

The Festival was originally scheduled last weekend but was postponed by the heavy rains.

There is no lacrosse currently scheduled in the fall, but filling the gap in the winter are once-a-week clinics at

Rob Busby of Andover, a freshman at Worcester Polytech, helped the school's baseball team to a 16-13 record and the Constitution Athletic Conference championship this spring.

Rob Busby

Busby, a standout pitcher/outfielder on Andover High's 1997 state semifinalist and the successful Andover Post 8 American Legion team last year, was named a second-team All-Conference at WPI.

Busby became the Engineers' starting centerfielder early in the season, and quickly showed he belonged at that position and as a pitcher.

A lefty batter and thrower, Busby finished the campaign with a .327 average and compiled a 3-2 mound record with a 4.23 ERA.

He capped the season in style as the complete-game winning pitcher in WPI's victory over Norwich in the game title game.

***

Stephanie Brown of Andover was recently honored as Female Freshman Athlete of the Year at Bridgewater State College.

It was one of nine major awards presented at BSC's 13th annual All-Sports Banquet.

The former three-sport standout at Andover High (volleyball, gymnastics and track) concentrated on volleyball at Bridgewater State.

She led the Lady Bears' varsity team in both kills (247) and blocks (99) last fall.

Brown was selected a Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference first-team All-Conference and was named MASCAC Rookie of the Year.

***

Mark Langone of Andover had an outstanding sophomore season for the Stonehill College baseball team in North Easton.

Late in the season, Langone was leading both the team and Northeast-10 Conference in hitting with a .455 average after lacing 50 hits in 110 at-bats.

He was also tied for the team lead in doubles with 14 and triples with three, was second in RBI with 35 and third in hits.

His best game of the season came against St. Anselm in late March, when he finished 4-for-4 with two doubles, a triple, seven RBI and three runs scored.

In addition to playing third base, Langone is also a force on the mound. Appearing in 10 games, including seven starts, he had posted a 5-4 record and struck out 40 batters.

The Chieftains were 22-12 after 34 games, including 13-5 in conference play for second place. Stonehill is also ranked No. 3 in Northeast Region Division 2.

***

Sarah Moss and Abby Harris of Andover, both women's lacrosse players at Union College in Schenectady, N.Y., have been nominated for All-American.

Moss, a junior defensive wing and team captain, received the team MVP award both in 1996 and this season. She also is captain-elect of both the Union varsity soccer and women's ice hockey teams.

A history major, Moss is a 1995 graduate of Middlesex School in Concord.

Harris, a sophomore second year starter at attack, helped spark Union to its 10-6 record with 29 goals and 20 assists for 49 points. She was second in the conference in assists and was voted second-team All-Conference.

The political science major, who also scored 16 goals and 17 assists as a freshman, is a 1996 graduate of Phillips Academy.

Kate Hayes, a sophomore second-year player from North Andover, was also nominated for All-American.

***

Sarah Moss of Andover, Kate Hayes of North Andover, and Abby Harris of Andover are women's lacrosse players at Union College nominated for All-American.

Todd Murray of Andover was a junior 6'1", 180-pound righty pitcher on the Providence College baseball team this spring.

Murray, a former All-Conference and

All-Scholastic hurler at Andover High, sat out the entire 1997 Friars' season after off-season surgery to his throwing arm.

He appeared in 14 games in 1996 for Providence, posting a 1-1 record with two saves and a 4.15 ERA. He started one game, pitched 26 innings and opponents hit only .276 against him.

The win was against Bentley College after he worked 2 2/3 perfect innings and struck out four.

The lone start was versus Fairfield and resulted in five solid innings of six-hit, one-run pitching.

As a freshman in 1995 Murray appeared in eight games, starting three and working 22.2 innings. He finished 2-1 with a 5.16 ERA. His first collegiate win was against intra-state rival Rhode Island, the second versus Holy Cross and the loss came to Iona in relief.

Murray, now 22, closed out the Friars' NCAA Tournament game against Texas Tech in 1995.

At AHS, Murray posted a 14-2 career record with a no-hitter and a pair of one-hitters to his credit. He fanned 84 batters his senior year.

The PC yearbook reads: "Murray's return in 1998 will be a key to the development of the Friars' young pitching staff. He has the tools to be an outstanding relief pitcher if he can come up with an off-speed pitch to compliment a fast ball that moves. He has loads of potential."

Before the surgery, social science major Murray was considered PC's top closer.

His older brother Tom also played at the AHS Field House.

Varsity possibilities

At some point Farnham and the advisory board hope that lacrosse will be instituted as a varsity sport at Andover High.

"We've had talks with (athletic director) Jim Hurley about starting a club team and working up to a varsity schedule over a two- or three-year period," said Farnham.

So far it hasn't gone beyond the talking stage.

Although several dozen Eastern Massachusetts high schools do have varsity lacrosse programs, the only Merrimack Valley Conference member that participates is Billerica.

The Indians compete in the Metro/North League against teams from Newton North, Newton South, Winchester, Wakefield, Burlington, Marblehead, Concord-Carlisle, Acton-Boxboro, Austin Prep and several other towns.

There are also a number of teams at south shore and Cape Cod high schools.

Lowell High launched a club program this spring and intends to play a full-fledged varsity schedule within the next two years.

Lacrosse, the national sport of Canada and a favorite among American Indians in the 1800's, combines the skills of many other athletic staples including football, basketball, baseball and hockey.

The ball is caught in, carried, passed and shot from the webbing of a stick. One point is scored for each goal that goes in the opponent's net, and protective gear includes a helmet and occasionally shin pads.

Josh Prudden of Andover, a senior at Pingree School in Hamilton, was named the ice hockey team's Most Valuable Player.

He was also selected to the New England Prep School Athletic Conference All-Star team as Pingree compiled a 17-9-2 record.

Prudden followed that up this spring by winning the Unsung Player Award for the Pingree boys lacrosse team, which compiled a 17-1 record on the way to championships in the Eastern Independent League and the New England Small School Tournament.

Prudden was selected a first-team Eastern League All-Star in lacrosse.

Also at Pingree, senior Nick Guild of Andover capped a terrific baseball season by being named the Best Defensive Player for the Eastern Independent League champions (15-3 record), the league MVP and an All-Scholastic.

***

Jen Prudden of Andover, a sophomore at Colby-Sawyer College in New Hampshire, recently received two athletic awards at the school's 16th annual Chargers Club Reception.

Prudden, who completed her second season on the CSC women's alpine ski and soccer teams this past academic year, was named Most Improved in skiing and winner of the Coach's Award in soccer.

She placed 29th in the giant slalom at the season opening meet hosted by UMass Amherst, while her best slalom showing was 32nd place against Smith College.

Megan Miller of Andover, a senior at Colby-Sawyer, was named Most Valuable Player of the women's lacrosse team.

***

Rick Crispo of Andover ran in the middle distance events for the Worcester Tech men's track and field team this spring.

***

Jeff Lembo of Andover, a senior designated hitter/third baseman for the Assumption College baseball team, this spring became the 36th player in school history to collect 100 career hits.

He laced three singles and drove home a run to help the Greyhounds to an 10-6 Northeast-10 Conference victory over visiting AIC at Rocheleau Field in Worcester.

Lembo also had two singles and his first home run of the season in a wild 16-15 Northeast-10 Conference loss to Bryant College.

***

Angela Chongris of Andover, a senior attack on the Colgate University women's lacrosse team, was named the Patriot League Offensive Player-of-the-Week three times this spring. Chongris scored four goals and passed out three assists in a league victory over Holy Cross. She followed with five goals and three assists versus Syracuse, and contributed two goals, two assists against the University of Vermont.

Her weekly total for those three games was an impressive 11 goals, eight assists.

Chongris led the Patriot League in scoring with a 5.88 points-per-game average.

Among the nation's leaders, Chongris ranked third in points per game, fourth in assists per game and 12th in goals per game.

***

Johanna Gordon of Andover was the coxswain on the Connecticut College women's varsity eight which defeated Coast Guard by 16 seconds to win the seventh annual Tuneski/Bearce Cup crew race on the Thames River in New London, Conn.

Sam Vail of Andover, rowing the bow position, helped the Connecticut College men's varsity eight win similar honors after edging Coast Guard by 2.3 seconds in their race. The men pulled away over the final 300 meters.

***

and Mike Sullivan of Andover were major contributors to the success of the Amherst College baseball team this spring.

The Jeffs finished 21-9 and Amherst was ranked No. 5 in New England.

Quattlebaum, a sophomore infielder, batted .345 (fourth best on team) with 39 hits in 113 at-bats including seven homers and 25 RBI. He scored 32 runs, stole a team-high nine bases and belted a three-run homer to help power a 13-3 romp over Wesleyan late in the season.

Sullivan, a senior centerfielder, was close behind at .337 with 34-for-101 including two homers and 17 RBI.

Sullivan, who also plays varsity soccer, had a three-hit, three-RBI game late in the season as Amherst blanked Fitchburg State, 7-0.

Sullivan was on four Amherst baseball teams that won 20 or more games, earning three NCAA Tournament bids.

Quattlebaum, also a guard on the Amherst basketball team, was one of only two sophomores named to the 11-man New England Small College Athletic Conference All-League team.

Both Sullivan and Quattlebaum qualified for the NESCAC All-Academic team for the spring semester. Student-athletes must maintain at least a B+ cumulative average and be a starter or important reserve on their team.

***

Heidi Cline of Andover was second on the ECAC champion Amherst College women's lacrosse team in scoring this spring with 44 goals and 11 assists for 55 points.

The senior attack and co-captain finished her collegiate career as Amherst's second leading all-time scorer with 171 points, and she is No. 1 in goals with 129.

Cline was recently selected to the Intercollegiate Women's Lacrosse Association New England Regional All-America second team at attack.

The prestigious squad recognizes the top 30 laxwomen on first and second teams.

She was also named to the GTE/CoSIDA Spring At-Large College

Division Academic All-District 1 Team.

Members were chosen from 76 nominees from the sports of crew, golf, lacrosse, tennis, volleyball, indoor and outdoor track and field at non-Division 1 institutions in New England and eastern Canada.

Cline has served as president of the Amherst Outing Club, and as a two-year resident counselor while maintaining a 3.38 grade-point average as an economics major.

Ethan Murphy, a senior at Andover High, has been selected to play in the fifth annual Carole Classic All-Star Football Game scheduled Thursday night, July 23 at Woburn High's Connolly Stadium ( 7 p.m. kickoff).

Murphy will play running back/defensive back for the Merrimack Valley Conference All-Stars, who will oppose the Middlesex League All-Stars.

Rosters of both squads are comprised of top senior players from the rival leagues member schools.

5th annual Andover Warrior Baseball School starts first of three sessions June 29

By Rick Harrison

The fifth annual Andover Warrior Baseball School will run in three Monday-Friday sessions June 29-July 3, July 6-10 and July 13-17 at the Andover West Middle School field complex.

Daily sessions at the school, for youngsters ages 7-15 years, will go from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The program is run by the Andover High varsity coaching staff, along with past and present AHS players.

The fundamentals of hitting, bunting, fielding, throwing, catching, baserunning and position play will be stressed.

Campers will be grouped by age, there will be drill stations, individual player evaluations, daily games, awards and T-shirts.

Ken Maglio is the camp director and Kevin Rourke the assistant director.

Maglio is chairman of District 1 of the National High School Baseball Coaches Association.

The AHS head varsity coach is also a three-time Merrimack Valley Conference Coach-of-the-Year.

His teams are 91-26 over five seasons and have won three league titles and two Division 1 North championships while qualifying for the tournament five times.

The cost is $125 per session, with a $10 discount for those taking any two sessions and a $25 discount for those taking all three.

In case of rain the school will move indoors to the Andover High Field House.

For further information contact Ken Maglio at 978-623-8709.

Andover boys varsity b-ball team in annual Hoops For Hope Basketball League

By Rick Harrison

The Andover boys varsity team in the annual summer-long Hoops For Hope Basketball League begins play this week.

This is the sixth consecutive year for the league, whose proceeds are used to upgrade playground facilities for underprivileged youth in Lawrence and surrounding communities.

Outstanding showcase basketball is traditionally played among the region's top high school underclassmen.

Andover won the first Jacob Eyssi Trophy as HFH's inaugural champ in 1993. Charlestown is the defending titlist.

Eyssi was a Lawrence police officer felled in the line of duty.

Midway through the season will be the fourth annual David Bradner Memorial Tournament. The tourney is named for the former Andover resident and postal worker, a standout hoop player at Greater Lawrence Tech, who was shot to death in the Ballardvale section of Andover while on his mail route.

Other members of the 26-team league are Reading, Chelmsford, Greater Lawrence, Tewksbury, St. Mark's, Haverhill, Timberlane Regional, Lawrence, Bishop Brady (Concord N.H.), Salem, Peabody, Dracut, Nashua, N.H., Acton-Boxboro, Algonquin Regional, Hampton, N.H., Westford, Beverly, Lowell, Charlestown, Central Catholic, Manchester, N.H. Central, Pinkerton Academy (Derry, N.H.), Medford and North Andover.

All games are scheduled at the Sullivan Park outdoor courts on Osgood Street in Lawrence. On rainy days the games will be played indoors at the Andover High Field House.

The Andover varsity schedule:

He came to Bowdoin in 1958 as hockey coach and remained in that position until 1983, winning four ECAC Division 2 championships and three Edward Jeremiah Memorial Awards as national college division coach of the year. He was also Eastern Small College coach of the year once and New England coach of the year twice.

Watson, who took over as Bowdoin athletic director in 1984, is a member of the Andover, Northeastern University and State of Maine Halls of Fame.

Sera Coppolino of Andover, a graduate of Phillips Academy, was a freshman member of the University of Michigan women's varsity crew team this spring.

The chemistry major, who rows port for the Wolverines, was a three-time varsity letterwinner at PA and team captain as a senior.

The Big Blue finished third in the New England Prep School Championships her junior year.

Michigan, with big wins over national powers Virginia and Wisconsin this season, hoped to qualify for the upcoming NCAA Rowing Championships in Gainesville, Ga. with a strong showing at the recent Women's Central Sprints Regional Championships.

Phillips Academy graduate Vicky Chen, a junior at Wesleyan University, earned her third varsity letter in softball this spring.

The 10-17 team's No. 1 pitcher, Chen appeared in 18 games, started 16 and tossed 15 complete games.

In 102.1 innings she allowed 134 hits, struck out 56 and walked 44 while compiling a 7-10 record and 3.42 ERA.

At the plate, Chen batted .302 with 19 hits, 12 runs scored and seven RBI. She belted one triple and stole eight bases in nine attempts.

leader in strikeouts (164), having set a single-season record with 67 in 1997.

In 60 games and 328 innings (nine shy of the school record), she has compiled a 22-33 record and 5.23 career ERA.

With 47 hits in 182 at-bats, Chen owns a career .258 average with five doubles, two triples, four homers, 38 runs scored, 24 RBI and 15 stolen bases.

Chen has also been named to the New England Small College Athletic Conference Academic All-Star Team. Her grade-point average is more than the minimum 3.2 on a 4.0 scale.

The economics major also played volleyball for two years at Wesleyan. She was a three-time letterwinner in both volleyball and softball at Phillips.

Pair of gymnasts in the AHS Class of '98 compete for Team Massachusetts

By Rick Harrison

Ethan Murphy and Brian Cutler, both of whom graduated from Andover High earlier this month, competed for Team Massachusetts at the annual National High School Gymnastics Championships held in New York over the Memorial Day weekend.

The pair, who paid their own way to the meet held at Shaker High in the Albany suburb of Latham, were joined on the five-man Bay State squad by Dave Friedman and Dan Armani of Attleboro and Sean Monaco of Braintree.

Murphy's selection was significant because he has only participated in competitive gymnastics for two years.

Cutler's selection was significant because it came after a high school season disrupted by hand and ankle injuries.

Murphy, who will study engineering at Worcester Polytech next fall, was also a stand-out running back/defensive back on the AHS varsity football team and a sprinter/high jumper in spring track. He was captain of all three sports.

Cutler was also a running back/defensive back in football and that team's second high scorer last fall with 24 points. He was captain in football and gymnastics.

Late start

"I always wanted to do gymnastics, but didn't start until my junior year when a friend on the team (Mark Zammuto) asked me to try out," said Murphy.

He developed into the Golden Warriors top all-around performer last winter, and at the Nationals Murphy competed in five of the six events (parallel bars, high bar, rings, pommel horse and vault).

"I stayed away from floor exercise because it's not my best event," said Murphy.

Cutler's top events are vault and floor exercise while he is also proficient on parallel bars and rings.

Four-year gymnast Cutler missed the first part of the AHS dual-meet season after suffering a broken finger in the final football game Thanksgiving morning against Central Catholic.

He returned midway through the gymnastics campaign, but almost immediately suffered a severe ankle sprain while competing in floor exercise against Attleboro.

He recovered from the injuries in time to participate in the State Meet and the Nationals.

Both are 18 years old and both have compact builds, Murphy checking in at about 5'8" and 150 pounds and Cutler at 5'9", 160.

"Even with the broken finger Brian came to practice and worked out as best he could," said Golden Warriors' coach Jack Gleason. "He did the same thing after the ankle sprain although he was limited in what he could do."

"Both Ethan and Brian are tough competitors. They aren't the biggest athletes around and they took some vicious knocks in football."

"Ethan reminds me of Chuck Scheibler, one of the best gymnasts ever at Andover High. Chuck was on one of Joe Dorsey's state championship teams in the 1960's, and he went on to compete at Springfield College.

"Ethan has the same type of build, and if he'd taken up the sport sooner I believe he could have been the same caliber gymnast."

"Ethan's best events were probably parallel bars and vault, while Brian excelled in floor exercise."

"I wish we had both of them back for another year," added Gleason.

"Other coaches couldn't believe Ethan had only been doing gymnastics for two years," said AHS co-head coach Steve Sirois. "He made tremendous progress in a short time."

"I think both Brian and Ethan took what they learned as captains of the football team and brought those same leadership qualities into the gym. Their desire and intensity trickled down to our younger kids," added Sirois.

Award winners

Murphy was presented with the Golden Warriors' Most Outstanding Gymnast Award and Cutler received the Most Improved Gymnast Award after the season.

The Team Massachusetts boys finished seventh at the Nationals, and Murphy was about 30th among 40 gymnasts in the individual competition.

"We felt it would be a great experience for both kids," said Sirois. "It was an opportunity they deserved and earned — a chance to compete against some of the best in the country."

This is the end of the gymnastics road for both.

Murphy, who will play for the Merrimack Valley Conference All-Stars against the Middlesex League 'Stars in next month's fifth annual Carole Classic charity football game at Woburn High, intends to play only football at WPI.

Cutler will take a year off from school and expects to do community service work in Boston during that time.

Synchers heading to Nationals

The Andover-North Andover YMCA Synchers held their annual synchronized swim show Sunday, June 14, at the YMCA at 165 Haverhill St. in Andover.

"No Limits? Reach for the Sky!" was the theme for the show featuring swimmers from ages 8 to 18. The show was the final exhibition for Synchers' team members who will travel to Buffalo, N.Y., to compete in the United States Synchronized Swimming Association's Age Group National Championships beginning June 27. This will be the Syncher's fifth showing at the Nationals.

Routines for the June 14 show included solos, duets, trios and team routines by the competitive and instructional teams. During each routine swimmers must perform a series of swimming maneuvers, called figures, synchronized to both music and other members of their team.

For more information about the Synchers or the synchronized swim show, call the YMCA at 685-3541.

Andover Early Childhood Development Center

Andover Early Childhood Development Center attributes its success to its qualified staff's devotion, experience, and enjoyment of children. The Center's ability to accommodate flexible schedules, both part and full time which serve the best interests of the children and the parents, has also been a contributing factor in its success for its fifth year in operation.

Andover Early Childhood Development Center is a preschool with extended care serving children ages 2 years and 9 months and offers before and after school programs for ages 6-9. Transportation is available to the public schools and for those attending kindergarten during the day in the towns of Andover, North Andover, and South Lawrence.

The Center is equipped with a large fenced-in playground with swings, eight slides, and many climbing structures, all situated on a full acre of land. Each week brings a new theme to the Center to maintain a stimulating environment that includes a wide variety of activities in numbers, letters, shapes, reading, science, nature, and cooking. Computers are also part of the daily activities. A monthly newsletter encourages parent involvement and participation in the preschool program.

The staff strives to provide each child with a positive and educational experience. All staff members attend continuing education programs for preschool and day care providers on a regular basis. They are also trained in CPR and first aid. The Center evaluates emotional levels and performs social and motor skills evaluations twice a year in June and January.

Andover Early Childhood Development Center is now accepting applications for enrollment for September 1998 and accepts state vouchers.

Andover Early Childhood Development Center is located at 274 Lowell St. (Rte. 133), Andover. Hours are Monday through Friday, 6:15 a.m. to 6:15 p.m. Call Kathy Zagarella, director, to visit the school or for more information.

Garden House - Korean and Japanese Cuisine

Garden House specializes in authentic Korean and Japanese cuisine served by a courteous and friendly staff in a cozy dining atmosphere.

Located in Lawrence for the past four years, just past the Showcase Cinemas on the right, Garden House has recently added a sushi bar to compliment its extensive menu.

Garden House's menu has many delicious items to choose from, all prepared by Chef Lee who has more than 10 years experience cooking Korean and Japanese specialties. Chef Lee's Bi Bim Bob is very popular - rice with assorted vegetables and beef marinated in sesame oil. The Gan Poong Ki - sliced chicken and vegetables sauteed with garlic flavored sauce - is a big favorite. A variety of vegetarian dishes are also available. Sushi man Michael Lee prepares many tempting creations including sushi, maki, and sashimi.

Seung and Kyung Lee are dedicated to serving only the freshest fish, meats, and vegetables, with all dishes cooked to order. All items on the menu are available for take-out.

Garden House is located at 108 Winthrop Ave. (Rte. 114), Lawrence, just past the Showcase Cinemas, on the right. Open for lunch and dinner 11:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, and noon to 10 p.m. on Sunday. Telephone: (978) 691-5448.

La Conquistadora

Terrific looking hair and beautiful nails are the outcome after visiting Andover's state-of-the-art spa, La Conquistadora.

Since November 1997, La Conquistadora has been serving the Andover community as a full service hair and nail spa. Owner Edna Jimenez uses and sells only the finest quality hair products and continues to offer the Nicole™ nail lacquer. "Most of my clients ask for the Nicole nail lacquer over other brands available because of its bold and brazen color selection," said Ms. Jimenez.

La Conquistadora's professional nail services include manicures, pedicures, sculptured nails, acrylics, and silk wraps. Hand paraffin wax treatments and facial waxings are also available. Clients can be certain that all hair and nail implements are properly sterilized, as the spa uses a separate hospital-level wet disinfectant system and a dry close-cabinet sanitizer.

The staff at La Conquistadora regularly attend workshops to keep them up to date with the latest in hair fashions. Highlighting, low-lighting, foiling, and dimensional colors are hot. Fade cuts are very popular and cutting the hair to compliment facial shapes is still the trend.

La Conquistadora is located in downtown Andover at 22 Park Street. Hours are Monday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesday 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Friday and Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Telephone: (978) 623-7273.

Bazaar Days 1998 Entertainment Schedule

Event hours

Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Walk, bike or carpool to Bazaar events this weekend. Parking will be difficult for this popular event. Much of Andover's downtown business district will be closed to cars and turned into a pedestrian mall for this weekend to accommodate the sidewalk sales and activities.

Where to park

Parking will be available in public parking lots at: the town library on North Main Street; the central parking lot behind the Andover Town House between Park, Chestnut and Barnard streets; Town Offices on Bartlet Street; the parking lot off South Main Street across from Punchard Street; and streets just outside the blocked-off area, which include Bartlet, Whittier, Elm, Punchard and Chestnut streets.

Closed street sections

Main Street from Elm Square to the Historical Society; Barnard and Park streets from Main to the back of the Andover Town House and Chestnut Street from Main Street to The Cycle Stop.

Friday, June 19

- Main Street closes 8 a.m.
- Sidewalk sales along downtown streets, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.
- Charmingfare Farms - Barnyard Petting Farm, Main Street parking lot by Olde Andover Village, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Bazaar Days weekend – something for everyone

Mark your calendars for fun and bargains! Friday and Saturday, June 19 and 20, Andover's premier sidewalk sale features big discounts and fun for everyone. There's great finds from more than 100 shops and great food and beverages too.

Bazaar Days is a long standing tradition in town, and it grows bigger every year. The merchants prepare for months and townspeople meet people they haven't seen through the long winter months.

These two gala days of sidewalk sales, sponsored by the Andover Center Association merchants, are complemented by such family entertainment as dance demonstrations, hayrides, a horse-drawn carriage, several different jugglers juggling furniture and other items, Rami Salami, the king of the balloon hats, and a visit to the Barnyard Petting Farm. Also featured this year is a display of cars from various car dealerships and the third annual Andover Bike Classic races for all ages.

Main Street is blocked off from Elm Square to the Historical Society; Barnard and Park streets are closed to the rear of the Old Town Hall, and Chestnut Street is closed from Main Street to the Cycle Stop.

Special event on Friday

Friday evening an antique horse-drawn carriage will give rides around The Park from 5 to 8 p.m., and the Town of Andover Health Department has an anti-smoking puppet show at noon.

Exciting events on Saturday

From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturday, Rami Salami "The King of Balloon Hats" will demonstrate his unique talent in constructing hat balloons. Other Saturday features are hayrides from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., and juggler Dan Foley from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For dance devotees, there are demonstrations of classical and modern dance by members of Andover School of Ballet.

The Barnyard Petting Farm

A special feature of Sidewalk Bazaar Days is a chance to visit the Barnyard Petting Farm in the Main Street parking lot, next to 89 Main St. The farm is open for visitors during Sidewalk Bazaar hours and hayrides will be held throughout the day.

Merrimack Valley Auto Dealers

The Andover Center Association is broadening the scope of Bazaar Days to have something for all ages. As such, the merchants are happy to announce the return of the Merrimack Valley Auto Dealers participating in Bazaar Days, so friends and family can see the new offerings of cars, trucks and vans right on Main Street.

Joining the Andover Center Association Bazaar Days this year will be: Woodworth Motors – Cadillac, Saab, Buick; Commonwealth Motors – Honda, Subaru; Bill DeLuca Chevy-Pontiac – Chevrolet, Pontiac; Wall's Lincoln-

Mercury – Lincoln, Mercury; Manzi Dodge – Dodge; Jaffarian Volvo-Toyota; and Clark Motors – Chrysler, Plymouth, Jeep, Eagle.

Third annual Andover Bike Classic set for June 20 and 21

The third annual Andover Bike Classic will take place Saturday and Sunday, June 20 and 21, as part of Bazaar Days festivities and will benefit the Greater Lawrence Habitat for Humanity.

Saturday's self-paced 12-mile fun ride will follow the scenic backroads of Andover and is geared toward families and their children. Children under the age of 12 must be accompanied by an adult.

The tour starts at the Town Office building at 10 a.m. Registration forms are available by calling 738-3468.

The bicycle race on Sunday will be held on Chestnut, Morton and Bartlet streets, beginning at noon. Participants will complete a 1.2-mile loop a certain number of times, based on age and bike racing experience.

A children's event will be held on the Doherty Middle School ¼-mile track beginning at noon. Parents can watch their children compete and even take part in the competition themselves.

Dick Ring, "The Voice of New England," will be on hand to bring all the thrills and excitement of the races.

Let us help you plan that special trip!

Now your kids can save something that won't slip through their fingers.

Our Early Investor Account is something you and your kids will both jump at.

This special, interest bearing savings account can be opened with only $10. And every time the account reaches $500, that money is automatically rolled into a higher interest Early Investor CD. While the funds in the CD earn higher interest, kids can continue to build their statement savings.

Our Early Investor Account is convenient, fun and a great way to teach kids how to save. A concept they should be able to grasp.

For information, call 1-800-2CALL-AB or for local calls 474-4650.

Rami Salami

The King of Balloon Twisters

Under his bright yellow banner proclaiming this to be "SalamiLand," and dressed in bright fleece overalls with blue hair in soft curls, Rami Salami rules. While personally greeting each participant, he keeps his line orderly and plays to his admiring audience of photographers, videographers, parents, tourists, or passers-by eager for a moment of pure fun, kids being themselves, and adults acting young. Spontaneous fun for the whole family, it is a bright, visual experience.

SalamiLand can pop up anywhere in the world. As Rami Salami goes to work, each person sitting on the small stool in front of him is mesmerized not only by the beauty of his work, but by the hypnotic speed at which he works. Each balloon is inflated, twisted and added to the head while the model watches in the mirror. While focusing in the mirror, a gentle tap on the head from his harmless squeaking hammer announces that the hat is finished, and it's time for the next head.

Rami is a former stand-up comedian with a quick wit, keeping the adults roaring while the kids laugh too. A difficult accomplishment, but Rami does it with charm in seven languages including Spanish, Hebrew and Japanese.

The who, what and why of the Andover Center Association

Who?

The Andover Center Association is a diverse group of businessmen and women whose number-one concern is the well being of downtown Andover. We are a community minded organization. Through collaborative efforts and membership dues, the members of the Andover Center Association strive to make downtown Andover a desirable and pleasant experience for the entire community.

What?

What do we do? The members finance, volunteer their time and services by attending meetings, and planning for our yearly events and programs such as:

- Holiday Open House
- Breakfast with Santa
- Bazaar Days
- Jazz & Java
- Trick or Treat Downtown
- Spring Coloring Contest
- Holiday Lighting & Decorating
- Spring Flower Project

... in order to create a downtown where friends and family meet.

Why?

To make Andover a preferred and pleasant shopping area by providing a vibrant and growing downtown. We want to attract new friends and keep old ones coming back!

There's more

We maintain a dialogue with town officials on downtown issues and work with the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce and various groups and committees as opportunities arise. As always, we are determined to strive for more and have an even stronger, more positive impact on downtown Andover.

The following non-profit organizations are participating:

Andover Center Association, Andona Society, Senior Center, Andover High School Cheerleaders, Andover Youth Services, Andover Board of Selectmen, Andover Police and Fire departments, Ballardvale United Church, South Church, the Unitarian Universalist Church, Girl Scout Troops 708 and 50, and the Town of Andover Health Department.

These are the Andover Center Association members. The next time you visit them, why not thank them for their efforts.
